AUTUMN 1968

October 15, 1968

Dear Fellow Ministers:

Europe was host to a series of ecumenical meetings during the summer of 1968. Presbyterians gathered in Cluj, Roumania, during the last week of June; the World Council of Churches met in Uppsala, Sweden, during July; and the Anglicans assembled in the Lambeth Conference in London during most of August. It was a summer of taking stock, of assessing the strength and mission of the Church today, and of projecting plans for the years ahead. Out of these meetings came vivid impressions of the challenges facing the Church and of the centers of strength from which she can draw for her mission.

The first impression has to do with the worship life of the Church. It is from churches with a strong liturgical tradition that we in America have much to learn, for worship has been the wasteland of American Protestantism. Our services tend to be improvised, the sacraments are often denuded of any significance, and even the sermon sometimes has been replaced by the panel. But the Christian can live without worshipping no more than a man can live without breathing. Worship is the central act in the Church's life, her joyful response to God's gift in Jesus Christ. Worship is the common experience binding the churches together. It is the service of the people of God in thanksgiving for what He has done and in anticipation of the fulfillment of His purpose. New and creative patterns of worship were in evidence in Uppsala, alongside the historic liturgy of many churches that have maintained their witness in the midst of hostile regimes through the meaning which these liturgies have for the faithful. One cannot escape the conclusion that a Church with a strong worship life cannot be broken or destroyed.

A second impression concerns the strength of congregational life. Here again we have most to learn from churches under the cross. Their members have discovered that when they stand for something or against something they must have a place to stand, and that place is squarely in the midst of the congregation. We in the west have hymned the demise of the congregation prematurely. It is my growing conviction that the further we are from the gathered congregation of God's people, the further we are from the Church. Here the faith has the reality of day-to-day living, of being put to the test in the ordinary life of man. The new emphasis on localism and on community control should give us a fresh appreciation of the congregation and of its central place in the life of the Church.

A third impression is the urgent need for evangelism in every part of the Church today. The Church is bound up with a ghetto psychology all over the globe. In part this is a result of a crisis of faith. Many of our ecclesiastical meetings are uncritically this-worldly. We admire the world with its tremendous potential, and we are afraid of it. Maybe Juergen Moltmann and Harvey Cox are right. Our sin today is not pride but apathy and sloth. We are willing to let the snake tell us what to do.

A fourth impression is the emergence of the Third World and the appearance of new polarities that will characterize our generation. The southern hemisphere is poor, depressed, and predominantly non-white. It is also the locus of the younger churches that were once our missions. We claim to have reached the stage of partnership in mission with them, but the proper forms of this partnership have not yet been worked out. Nor will this be possible as long as the gap between the rich and poor nations grows wider and as long as we continue to be part of a society riddled with inequities and injustices. Our mission abroad and our mission at home are parts of one fabric. The Church can no longer escape involvement in the human condition anywhere.

Finally, there is the conviction that Kornelis Miskotte is right about the current situation, described in the title of his book, WHEN THE GODS ARE SILENT. This is the age in which the gods are indeed silent, the gods of religion, the old ethnic deities, the ideological gods that have failed. There can be seen attempts to flee to the fleshpots of religion, to attempt to resuscitate old nationalisms and ideologies, to seek false absolutes of security and order. But such responses miss the opportunity of today's silence, the chance to hear afresh the voice of the living God, the voice that has called us and that still may be heard above the din of silence.

Uppsala was a testimony to God's faithfulness to His Church. It has spread from Jerusalem and Judea to the uttermost parts of the earth. It has taken root and flourished in every culture and has been maintained in every situation. And this Church remains central to God's purpose to reconcile all differences and to bind mankind into a living unity. Perhaps the vision of the summer of 1968 was a fresh vision of the unity of mankind, not as a utopian hope but as the fulfillment of God's purpose.

Faithfully yours,

James I. McCord

Convocation address

President McCord

President James I. McCord addressed the convocation of the 157th entering class, the largest in the Seminary's history, on "Perspectives on Man." Declaring that ideological man is passing, Dr. McCord stated that the new man on campus accepts responsibility for his own guilt, rather than being willing to inhabit a mechanistic world. The new man has a chastened view of reality; he recognizes evil as a byproduct of man's highest gift—freedom. The spiritual disease known as evil is especially exemplified in 20th century man's inability to cope with freedom, a failure particularly obvious in the political arena. Full humanity is not inborn; it must be completed and pursued throughout one's life. In opposition to the dehumanizing forces in modern technological society, the individual must choose between opting out of the struggle or working for a new age, a new humanism—the man in Christ, who seeks his fulfillment in service to others.

Princeton's 157th year

Princeton Theological Seminary opened its 157th year in September with 8 new faculty and administrative appointments and a record enrollment of 640 students.

A total of 262 new students took part in the Sunday to Wednesday orientation schedule and began the new academic year. The greatest increase was in numbers of students seeking the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the graduate degrees of Master of Theology and Doctor of Theology.

At the beginning of the last academic year, Princeton received 122 new B.D. students. The 1968 figure is 141. The rising totals continue a trend of 6 years' standing. Seminary enrollment passed the 600 mark for the first time during the last academic year.

The Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen

Bishop Sheen preaches

The Right Reverend Fulton J. Sheen, Bishop of Rochester, spoke on the centrality of Christ at the October 2 chapel extended service. Addressing an overflow congregation, Bishop Sheen described Christ as the intersection between Eastern and Western philosophies. The first of these may be stated "God does everything; man, nothing," while the second reflects the attitude that "Man does everything; God does nothing."

He reminded students that Christ's admonition to His disciples to go forth into the world and preach His doctrine was preceded by the summons "Come unto Me." Men of Christ must hold themselves forever in His presence, if they are to serve Him faithfully.

This constant awareness of the Divine Presence will uphold the pastor also during the frustrations of spirit which so often follow the initial response to Christ's call, the sense of personal inadequacy and the realization that no church perfectly reflects His teachings; it will eventually bring that perfect acceptance of His will which alone can produce a fruitful, faithful ministry.

Other extended chapel services during the current academic year will bring to the Princeton campus: on December 4, the Reverend Dr. Aaron Gast, '57, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Germantown, Pennsylvania, and former Dean of the Conwell School of Theology; on February 19, Dr. Frederick Speakman, minister of the Westminster Church of Dayton, Ohio; and on March 26, the Reverend Robert Sanders, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Utica, New York.

housing unit dedicated

The Reverend Drs. Clem E. Bininger, '34, and Richard E. Neumann, '46, were honored October 8 by the dedication of a housing unit at the Princeton-Windsor complex. The two-apartment unit was presented to the Seminary through the generosity of the ministers, officers and congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Fort Lauderdale, Florida. President McCord opened the ceremony with a call to worship and a short prayer. Dr. Neumann read the Lesson, and Dr. Bininger made a Statement of Presentation, to which Dr. McCord responded for the Seminary students and Trustees. A bronze plaque commemorating the occasion has been placed in the hallway of the unit.

Dr. Campbell addresses students

The Reverend Dr. Ernest Campbell, distinguished past President of the Princeton Seminary Alumni Council, climaxed the first day of orientation activities in a stirring address to incoming students on "The Kingdom That Cannot Fail." His speech stressed that God means to win and has the means to win—that, like a general, He counts the cost of the battle before it is joined. In the battle against the powers of evil, no cost is too great, even the life of His Son. Dr. Campbell, until recently minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor, Michigan, has recently been installed as pastor of the Riverside Church, New York City.

new faculty and staff appointments announced

Van Dyke

The Reverend Dr. Nicholas B. Van Dyke, for the past four years minister of the Palisades, N. Y., Presbyterian Church, is the new Associate Director of Field Education at Princeton Seminary. A graduate of Rutgers University and Union Theological Seminary in New York, Van Dyke is one of eight new faculty and staff members whose appointments have been announced by President James I. McCord. Dr. Van Dyke completed his Th.D. studies in St. Andrew's University, Scotland.

Aldridge

Dr. J. William Aldridge has been named Assistant Professor of Homiletics. Aldridge, who holds degrees from the University of Basel, Columbia Seminary and Southwestern at Memphis, comes to Princeton from a pastorate at Idlewild Presbyterian Church, Memphis.

Bartholomew

The Reverend Mr. John N. Bartholomew, appointed Instructor in Christianity and Society, is currently completing his dissertation for a Th.D. degree at Princeton. He is a graduate of Cornell University and Princeton Seminary and held pastorates in Alaska and Sayre, Pennsylvania, before beginning his doctoral studies at the Seminary in 1966.

Chaney

Appointed Assistant Director of Field Education, the Reverend Mr. E. Burnell Chaney, who holds degrees from Denison University, and Andover-Newton Theological School, is a minister of the United Church of Christ. Mr. Chaney served pastorates in Massachusetts before undertaking graduate study at Princeton Seminary.

The appointments of Dr. Bernhard W. Anderson as Professor of Old Testament Theology, Dr. Karlfried Froehlich as Associate Professor of the History and Theology of the Medieval Church, Mr. L. Charles Willard as Acting Librarian, and the Reverend Mr. Richard S. Armstrong as Director of Development were announced earlier this year.

students gain new involvement in seminary decision making

An involved generation of students has begun to share in policy making and program administration in several key areas of Seminary life. Field education, chapel and other worship activities, curriculum review and the Professional Studies Committee of the faculty are areas in which students participate.

Students now serve as full voting members of the policy-making staff of the Office of Field Education. A Joint Student-Faculty Committee is considering questions of community worship and of personal devotion, under the chairmanship of Church History Professor Lefferts A. Loetscher.

"The whole thrust of student involvement in the areas of curricular review, field education and worship is very significant," Mr. William Dunifon, President of the Student Association, said. "Until last spring students were not involved in any of these areas in recent times. The renewal of this partnership with the faculty and administration is an important turning point in the history of the Seminary."

Student participation in the Professional Studies Committee is considered of equal importance to the appointment of students to the field education committee. This committee considers questions of course extension, grade changes, course substitution and similar academic matters, as well as disciplinary cases pertaining to academics.

A comprehensive curriculum evaluation is already under way, with student participation. Students sat with faculty during the annual conferences which opened the academic year in September and gave special attention to language requirements.

Students have also been active in promoting improved on-campus student parking facilities and in plans to refurbish the Campus Center Lounge.

A Commons has been established in the basement of Stuart Hall where faculty, students and administration will find a place for relaxed communication between groups and individuals. Remodeling and redecorating was done by students.

Another change this year, long desired by students, faculty and administration, is a plastic identification card valid for both the Speer Library and Princeton University's Firestone Library.

choir concert tour outlined

Dr. David Hugh Jones, Professor of Music, has announced plans for the coming, 35th, concert year of the Princeton Seminary Choir. The group will sing at three or four churches each Sunday, from the 13th of October through May 25th. The Touring Choir will not offer services during the Christmas and Easter recesses. Four continents and 7 countries are represented in this year's choir, which has a repertoire

Holy Land tour

Some 30 Alumni, Faculty and wives participated in the first Study Tour to the East June 7-28, led by Professor Charles T. Fritsch and Dr. Jack Cooper, Director of the Continuing Education program which sponsored the trip. Professor Fritsch reports that after brief visits in Rome and Greece the party arrived in Beirut, from which they travelled to the archaeological remains of Byblos, the ancient harbor city of Sidon and the cliffs along the Dog River, where inscriptions carved by conquering armies provide an open-air history of 2000 years of military exploits.

"Most of our time was spent in the Holy Land itself," Dr. Fritsch said, "where we studied the main biblical sites in the four major areas: the Negev and Dead Sea area, where we climbed Masada, the great fortress of the Jewish Zealots who held against the Romans for three years after the fall of Jerusalem in AD 70; Jerusalem and the mountainous country north to Samaria; the Galilee area where Jesus lived and taught; and the coastal plain from Haifa south through Caesarea to Joppa (Tel Aviv), Ashdod and Ashkelon."

A syllabus of these biblical sites and evening lectures and the reading of appropriate biblical passages during the visits contributed to the significance and understanding of each day's experiences. Professor Mazar, Israel's leading archaeologist, described the exciting finds in the newly excavated area south of the Temple Wall in Jerusalem. A highlight of the trip was a Sunday morning service conducted by Jack Cooper along the shore of Lake Galilee.

In a flight over the Sinai Peninsula the group saw the deserted camps and mechanized remains of the defeated Egyptian army, as well as the lonely Monastery of St. Catherine nestled among the towering mountains near the southern tip of the Peninsula.

It is hoped that many other Alumni will be able to participate in future opportunities to study the Bible in the land where both the Old and the New Testaments came alive.

ranging from ancient plainsong to contemporary composers, including spiritual folk-songs from many nations. In addition to singing, the members participate in the speaking parts of the service; usually one or two give personal testimonies on their decision to enter the Christian ministry.

During the past 34 years, the Princeton Seminary Choir has sung in over 2,000 churches within 300 miles of Princeton. Since its first tour of Cuba in 1946 the choir has toured extensively every summer, appearing in all 50 states and in every province of Canada from Newfoundland to the Yukon Territory. It has also had many engagements in Central and South America. In 1953, upon invitation from the United States Armed Forces, the Choir sang at more than 100 military bases in Japan and Korea and was at the front line the day the armistice was signed.

alumni conference report

More than 100 former students attended the Autumn Alumni Conference September 19th and 20th on the Princeton campus. Many of these were couples of whom both husband and wife are alumni of the Seminary. The Reverend Dr. J. Charles McKirachan, President of the Princeton Seminary Alumni Association and Administrative Stated Clerk of the Presbytery of Cincinnati, led the service of worship which preceded each day's lectures. Dr. James I. McCord, President of the Seminary, presented three lectures on the theme The Road from Uppsala: "The Holy Spirit and Unity," "The Third World" and "The Gods are Silent." The Reverend Dr. William McElwee Miller, '18, and the Reverend Mr. Arthur M. Byers, Secretary of the Seminary, were responsible for Conference arrangements.

man on campus

Thomas W. Brian holds down a job whose complexities are matched only by those of his interests and abilities. A tour of the campus plant and plantings with the Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, known to succeeding generations as "Tom," left the guest with two sheets of solidly written notes on bushes, shrubs, trees, gates, boilers and lamp posts—and a healthy respect for the unassuming man in charge.

There are over 40 specimen varieties on campus, half of which are considered rare either for this area or because of their size. The Metasequoia, for example, presented by Princeton University, is one of the very few specimens successfully grown in the United States. The Empress Tree (Polonia), which in leaf and habit somewhat resembles an unpruned catalpa, is peculiar in that next year's flower buds and seed pods from both the past and the preceding summers are borne adjacent to each other. A Sequoia Gigantea flourishes in spite of the New Jersey climate. The size of the second largest Taxus yew in the United States, compared with the usual hedging or ornamental specimen, makes more credible its use in the English longbow. Hollies include the deciduous Winterberry, crenata, convexa and microfilium, as well as an enormous Helleri. This last forms the center of the Robert Speer Library planting, which in 1963 won from the Garden Club of New Jersey an award for excellence in landscape design. The design was planned and executed by Tom. Acer Rubrum is represented by the original stock, the new variety with its longer lasting, brighter foliage and the experimental links. It provides a magnificent autumn backdrop for the more usual maples, the sweet and sour gum, the lingering blossoms of one of the few crape myrtles in the area and plantings of Fairy, Damascus and Rugosa roses, still blooming. (The Rugosae prompted the tour, when their unusual haws prompted a question on the rose hip jelly noted in older cooking guides.)

In spring, double and single flowering cherries, azaleas, spirea, tulip poplars, bush and climbing forsythia and dogwood attract the gardener; roses and the later, Kousa, dogwood follow. In winter, the towering blue spruce and the hollies lend color to the scene and promise springtime rebirth of the cotoneasters, larch, ash and oak, the Styx Japonica and ginkgo, the Oxydendron and Cryptomeria Japonica which dot the campus.

All of the less familiar species are now identified by Tom's hand-lettered signs. He still relates as a favorite joke the Latin labeling by a student prankster of the old Philadelphia gas street lamps now lighting campus walkways.

Older alumni will recall that it was Tom who rescued the ball from the old tower of Alexander Hall and scaled the new tower to reinstall the ball, now containing sketches and notes on the operation. And it is Tom who knows the optimum steam pressure for each pipe in the institution, spots and warns nonconformist parkers, speaks with authority on the housing of purple martins and makes what is probably the best coffee on campus.

Sequoia Gigantea. This specimen is 11 years old.

seminary gains dual accreditation

Princeton Theological Seminary, a founding member of the American Association of Theological Schools, whose primary professional accreditation has been through AATS, has also been accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

President James I. McCord, in announcing the Middle States action, said the additional accreditation was sought in order to facilitate relations with colleges and universities in this country and throughout the world.

A Faculty Committee, chaired by Professor D. Campbell Wyckoff, prepared an Institutional Self-Analysis preliminary to a campus visit by the team which recommended the accreditation.

students take touring drama program to churches

Eleven Princeton Seminary students are traveling to local congregations each week to present the liturgical drama "This is the Word." Written by Philip W. Turner and directed by the Reverend G. Robert Jacks of the Seminary speech staff, "This is the Word" is performed in the context of a full worship service before a regular congregation. (continued on page 8)

27th Institute of Theology brings 260 to campus

The 1968 Institute of Theology, under the direction of Dr. Jack Cooper, Director of Continuing Education, attracted 260 participants, 239 of whom attended the full

"This Is the Word" dress rehearsal

The program was tried on an experimental basis last year, and was presented in both the New York and Chicago area meetings of the United Presbyterian Men.

The first performances of the current year were presented on October 13. The touring company, which is sponsored by the Seminary's Speech Department, is also preparing two additional programs. "The Apple Bit," by Norman Dietz, is a comic sketch in an Eden setting, while "The Last Word," by James Broughton, is a satiric dialogue spoken on the last day of the world.

The group is still available for booking during the current year, and information may be obtained by writing: Drama in the Church Program, Speech Studios, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J. 08540.

Benoit lectures

Father Pierre Maurice Benoit, leading authority on Biblical archaeology, lectured on

"The Evolution of the Old Jerusalem According to Archaeological Excavations," illustrated with slides, on October 8th. A French Dominican priest who has been a Professor of New Testament and Biblical Greek at the Ecole Biblique in Jerusalem since 1933, Father Benoit holds the Pontifical Biblical Commission's Licentiate in Sacred Scripture. In addition to his published works in the Biblical field, he is an editor of the Revue Biblique and was one of the leading contributors to the Jerusalem Bible. His lecture at Princeton was sponsored by Koinonia.

Seminary personnel honored

New street names in the Princeton-Windsor married student 200-apartment complex will honor former Seminary faculty members and officials. They are: Dr. Peter K. Emmons, for 40 years a Trustee, and the retired pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Trenton; Dr. Benjamin J. Farber, late Secretary of the Board of Trustees and for many years pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, New York City; the late Dr. Frederick W. Loetscher, Professor of Church History, a post now held by his son, Dr. Lefferts Loetscher; and the late Dr. Donald Wheeler, a speech professor. Ninianne Boulevard will become Emmons Drive; Farber Road will replace Lynwood Drive; Loetscher Place will replace Dana Street; and Marcia Ann Street has been renamed Wheeler Way.

Mailing address changes

To avoid delays in mailing address changes, the Reverend Mr. Arthur M. Byers, Jr., Secretary of the Seminary, suggests that Alumni notify his office directly, rather than depending upon the information being passed along by friends on the faculty and staff, or even by other post offices. Even then some delays will occur, as the mail-room work schedule necessitates preparation of some envelopes well in advance of the mailing date. Faster and more efficient service than is now possible can be achieved by early notice of address changes.

Erratum

The last issue of the Alumni News, which reached our readers during the summer, carried an error in the report on the appointment of Professor M. Richard Shaull to the new Henry Winters Luce Chair of Ecumenics.

The Professorship of Ecumenics at Princeton Seminary was established in 1914, not 1941, as a chair of missions. In 1937, according to President Emeritus John A. Mackay, the "chair of mission became the chair of ecumenics which embraced" the field of mission.

President Mackay, who introduced the term "ecumenics" into modern church affairs, was the first person to hold the chair under its new title.

✓ PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

December 13, 1968

Dear Fellow-Ministers:

Princeton cannot be accused of having an "edifice complex." It has tried to concentrate its resources on persons and programs. Now, for the first time since 1893, the Seminary must plan the construction of additional housing space for single students. It will be the first dormitory erected on campus in the twentieth century.

We have managed to get by up to this point because of the high degree of flexibility of available space. Hodge Hall, for example, has been a dormitory for single men and has housed up to twenty-seven married couples in a given term; and during all this time various rooms on the first floor have been shifted back and forth from dormitory to administrative office use. Even the basement of Hodge has not been spared. When the Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, Thomas Brian, moved into the new Maintenance Center, his old shop space was converted into a modern duplicating and mailing facility.

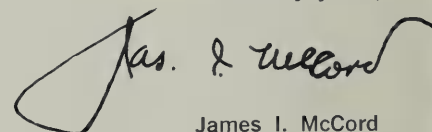

The new residence hall that is being projected will not only add much-needed space for single students but will also be flexible in its use. It will be built in a modular form to serve single students and to house an increasing number of ministers who come to Princeton to participate in the program of continuing education. The Board of Trustees has authorized the beginning of a formal summer school in 1970, and the new air-conditioned residence hall will provide accommodations for those involved in the summer program.

The cost of this new facility is estimated at $1,290,000, and this is a major portion of Phase II of the Seminary's $18,000,000 Decade of Development Program (1965-1975). A third of the goal has been reached already, and you have been responsible for a large part of this by designating gifts to the Seminary through the Fifty Million Fund. In Phase II we shall be seeking $4,000,000. In addition to the residence hall, goals are $1,710,000 to endow library costs, professorships and continuing education, and an additional $1,000,000 for scholarships.

The most pressing need now is funds to begin the erection of the residence hall. A foundation has made a challenge grant in the amount of $150,000, contingent on the Seminary's breaking ground before the end of 1969. There are opportunities for memorial and honorary gifts. We hope you will inform us of persons who might be interested in making such gifts. We are counting on your partnership as we move forward into the next phase of the Seminary's growth in service to Christ and His Church.

Faithfully yours,

James I. McCord

URBAN PROJECT REPORT

by

Arthur M. Adams*

The Princeton Seminary Urban Project in Field Education has been called a dialogue in words and deeds between the city and tomorrow's ministers on the mission of the Church to the inner-city core of America's greatest megalopolis.

Late in 1962 the Department of Field Education developed plans for a program of intensified training in inner-city ministry. A grant from a foundation in October 1963 underwrote a three-year pilot program under Seminary auspices, which involved inner-city churches in New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Wilmington, Trenton, New Brunswick and Camden.

The program has since been continued in cooperation with presbyteries. At this writing, 42 Seminary students are working in 30 churches and 2 neighborhood centers.

Some of the supervising pastors are involved in the Teaching Church program, gathering monthly on campus under the leadership of the field education office to increase their effectiveness as pastors and teachers. All are visited from time to time by the Reverend E. Burnell Chaney, the Seminary's Assistant Director of Field Education, who has special responsibility for the Urban Project. Urban Project pastors are also asked to give the Field Education office tape recordings of interviews with their students, for discussion with staff members. Conferences are held from time to time at the Center of Continuing Education so that urban pastors may explore problems and possibilities under the guidance of invited specialists.

Many of the congregations served are integrated; others deal with complex neighborhoods in varying ways. Under Brooklyn Bridge, the Church of the People, a federated Methodist-United Presbyterian congregation, includes a board variety of members—black, white, Chinese, Italian. In the Bronx, one student is working in a pastorless United Presbyterian Church with the pastor of a nearby Lutheran Church as his supervisor, as these two congregations seek to meet new problems in new ways. In Queens, inner-city neighborhood and youth problems are being met under the direction of the South Queens Council of the Presbytery of New York which coordinates the activities of churches and ministries in an extensive area and supervises four students in activities such as a coffee house, tutoring and street work.

Students in the Philadelphia area serve in a number of churches. The First African Presbyterian Church, one of the oldest black churches in Philadelphia, is an upper middle class congregation attempting to use its resources to reach all kinds of persons. In Germantown, the Community Church, a union of an old and long a fashionable white congregation and a venerable upper middle class black church, is giving unusual social leadership in a deteriorating community. In another area a few miles away Covenant Church proceeds with integration in a very different setting. Temple in South Philadelphia works heroically in a disintegrated community and is building a new church with Presbytery assistance, under the joint leadership of a black pastor and a Chinese pastor. Calvary United Presbyterian, an integrated congregation, has a different but comparable ministry. Tabernacle, on the University of Pennsylvania campus, serves the university community. In Kensington, a Spanish speaking student works with the Puerto Rican assistant pastor of the Norris Square Church. Another student is assigned to Palethorp Church for work with a mixture of suburban and inner-city whites.

"The Point" in Camden, New Jersey, is an old saloon, bought by the Presbytery four years ago. A staff of three ministers located at the Point carries on a varied program for this city, which suffers from a heavy exodus of leadership to the suburbs.

The Seminarian who is assigned to the Point introduces groups of suburban church youth to inner-city projects by means of weekend seminars, recruiting youth for a creative summer program in Camden and attempting to build suburban interest and a sense of responsibility for the city. In Newark two students are assigned to assist the dynamic young pastor of the black Central United Presbyterian Church. Others are in the Elmwood Church in East Orange, predominantly black, with two pastors. At the Kilburn Memorial Church a student is involved with a pastor who is attempting to offer an entrenched white community an alternative to relating to the encroachment of the expanding black ghetto with violence and vigilante activities. At the Weequahic-Elizabeth Avenue Church a white student works with a black pastor in ministering to the recently merged black congregation of the Weequahic Church and the white congregation of the former Elizabeth Avenue Church. At the Roseville Church a Seminarian and the pastor are experimenting with the use of para-military organizations whose members punch a time clock on their way in and out of meetings, as a means of ministering to the identity needs of the inner-city youngsters. In Trenton students work at the Civic Center or the Clinton Avenue Neighborhood Center. Two years ago the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Trenton voted to dissolve and asked the Presbytery of New Brunswick to devote its assets to a personal ministry in the area. This effort is housed at the Clinton Avenue Baptist Church. The neighborhood group now owns a building and has been able to establish a solid program of self-help projects.

In Wilmington three students are supervised by the white minister of the large West Presbyterian Church, who lives and sends his children to school in the 98 percent Negro community. He is devoted to community organization in a warm pastoral setting. Each student is assigned a twelve-family parish and carries on pastoral work with children and parents.

Not all of these students will seek inner-city pastorates upon graduation, but each will carry to whatever ministry calls him a further understanding of the needs and aspirations of the disadvantaged.

In addition to those engaged in the Project a number of other students serve urban parishes of all sorts. There is a course for those engaged in city ministry, called "Ministry in an Urban Setting." With assistance from the presbyteries, the students are introduced to urban church strategy and prepare papers on urban issues, such as mobility, urban-suburban relationships, housing, education and crime. Guests who have expertise in these fields criticize the papers and offer constructive ideas.

Thus a new generation of ministers is preparing to deal creatively with issues which baffle us today and with possibilities now beyond our imagination.

Bishop Ahr Preaches At Chapel

The Most Reverend George W. Ahr, Bishop of the Diocese of Trenton, preached at the October 22nd service in Miller Chapel.

Taking his text from Galatians 15:13 and I Corinthians 13, Bishop Ahr stressed the scriptural revelation of love as noble. God is love, a love which the life and preaching of Christ demonstrate must be active.

Throughout the New Testament, men are admonished to love and minister to each other, refraining from disputation and violence.

Abernathy at Princeton Seminary

DR. RALPH DAVID ABERNATHY

The Reverend Dr. Ralph David Abernathy presented the James J. Reeb Memorial Lecture in Miller Chapel on the evening of December 9th, at the invitation of the faculty, Student Association and alumni of Princeton Seminary. In introducing Dr. Abernathy, the Reverend Dr. James I. McCord, Seminary President, noted that the speaker appeared against the express wishes of his physician and came to Princeton directly from the Atlanta hospital where he had been recovering from viral pneumonia.

James J. Reeb, Abernathy stated, died in the highest service to which God calls men, the service of his fellow human beings. In the midst of the lethargy of despair which had gripped the civil rights movement, James Reeb presented the ultimate testimony to love, the message of redemptive suffering.

Dr. Abernathy went on to say that no monument of stone or bronze can adequately express our debt to Reeb and to those others who similarly gave their lives that all citizens of this country might be free to vote. The monument to their effort to redeem the soul of America must lie in work by all concerned people to provide a nation in which not only can black and white live peaceably together, but the lion will lie down with the lamb.

In 1965, he said, black citizens in the southern United States had no vote, and the Selma march in which James Reeb lost his life was planned by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to dramatize that injustice.

In 1968, there are many Selmas throughout the world: India, Africa, South America, Czechoslovakia, Viet Nam, he pointed out. There are many Selmas in the United States. There is a Selma in that county in which one man receives $13,000 a month not to plant his acreage and one baby receives $9.00 a month for food. There is a Selma wherever the poor and elderly are sick and uncared for; wherever men cannot find meaningful employment or the training to fit them for that employment; wherever children are crowded into firetrap schools without adequate plumbing, heat, books or qualified teachers. There is a Selma where Justice is tempered by the comparative wealth of those before the bench; where police force rather than social justice answers the unrest of the disadvantaged of whatever race or creed; where prejudice blinds the conscience of both privileged and deprived.

He concluded: Let us each, in the spirit of James J. Reeb, go forth to face the challenge of his own Selma, within himself or in the external world.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Dr. Abernathy was given a prolonged standing ovation by an overflow audience. Mr. William S. Dunifon, President of the Student Association, then invited those present to a reception and question and answer period in the Main Lounge of the Student Center.

Seminary Wives' Fellowship

Diversified interest groups, a thought-provoking Wives' Course and a dance are some of the stimulating activities the Seminary Wives' Fellowship has scheduled for the current academic year, according to Diane Naffziger, Secretary for the organization.

The Fellowship, with Diane McIlrath as President, is organized into six interest groups, with activities which range from making a collage expressing "What Life Means to Me" to hearing John Poling (B.D. '72) discuss the Peace Corps or having a domestic science expert describe cooking for two.

The Wives' Course is chaired by Diane Slaikeu. During the fall semester, Dr. Coval B. MacDonald presented a series of five talks on "Making the Scene in My Husband's World." The purpose was "to explore student-wife communications by looking at the feelings, ideas and experiences which tend to make husband and wife feel as though they are, indeed, in two different worlds."

In "Why Is He Here?" Dr. MacDonald described the "active" and "passive" types of seminarian. The active student is a leader who is a definite asset to the church, rather than a follower; the passive uses opportunities with people to help reinforce his own basic needs.

It was suggested in "He Walks with Me — but He Doesn't Talk with Me" that wives must learn to love their husbands as they presently are, not as they once were, while "Grin and Bear It" warned that the communication gap does not tend to close as husbands begin their active ministry in churches.

The fourth lecture, "Who Am I in All of This?" pointed out five different roles which ministers' wives may be required to play, and "Making the Scene out There — Together" described the many demands on the time and energy of both husband and wife.

The second group of lectures will be presented by Dr. S T Kimbrough.

The Wives' annual dance will be held at Far Hills Inn, Somerville, on Valentine Day. Joanne Kokie, the Social Chairman for the event, promises a sit-down dinner, music by the Seminary band ("The Apocalypse"), singing and other entertainment.

A monthly news letter, The Distaff, features reports from the interest groups, course summaries, recipes, book reviews and interviews and serves to maintain a more closely knit group of women.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger will deliver this year's L. P. Stone Lectures at the Seminary. The five sessions are scheduled for 7:45 P.M. on February 10th and 11th, 1:45 and 7:45 P.M. on February 12th and 7:45 P.M., February 13th. Topics had not been announced at the time the News went to press.

Dr. Menninger is Chairman of the Board of Trustees of The Menninger Foundation; Dean of the Menninger School of Psychiatry, Topeka, Kansas; and Senior Consultant to the Stone-Brandel Center in Chicago, Illinois.

He serves as a consultant to the Veterans Administration, the U. S. Department of Justice (Prison Service), the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (Vocational Rehabilitation), the Kansas Board of Social Welfare (Institutional Management), the Committee on the Rights of the Mentally Ill of the American Bar Foundation, the Forbes Air Force Base Hospital, the Topeka State Hospital, the Topeka Veterans Administration Hospital,

Service Building Design Wins Recognition

A First Honor Award for excellence in architectural design was given the Corporation Yard by the Pennsylvania Society of Architects. The award was presented to Alexander Ewing and Associates of Philadelphia at the P.S.A.'s annual Forum held in mid-October in Philadelphia.

The jury's comment read in part: "These service buildings . . . show a consideration for surrounding structures and campus views that has become an accepted aspect of institutional design. Yet rarely does this degree of concern extend to the campus service area."

Credit should also be given to Thomas Brian, Seminary Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings. Tom's knowledge of work flow and the needs of the various structures dependent upon the service buildings contributed much to the production of a valid working unit.

Menninger To Deliver Stone Lectures

the Kansas Diagnostic and Reception Center, the Kansas Neurological Institute, the Aspen Institute of Humanistic Studies in Colorado and the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute.

Dr. Menninger is a member of The Chicago Committee of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, the Family Study Commission of the Illinois Legislature and the Cook County Sesquicentennial Committee of Illinois. He is on the Advisory Board of Directors of the Anthropos Academy of Athens, the Board of Directors of the Chicago Boys Clubs and the John Howard Association and serves as a Governing Member of the Orchestra Association of Chicago and Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati.

In 1965 the American Psychiatric Association awarded Dr. Menninger its first Distinguished Service Award. In 1966 the University of Kansas appointed him its first "University Professor-at-Large," authorized to teach in any department on any campus of the University. In February 1968 Dr. Menninger was appointed the first Distinguished Professor of Psychiatry for the University of Health Sciences of the Chicago Medical School. He has also been appointed Distinguished Lecturer in Psychiatry at Loyola University, Chicago.

Dr. Menninger's published works include: "The Human Mind," "The Healthy Minded Child" (with Nelson Antrim Crawford), "Man Against Himself," "Love Against Hate" (with Mrs. Menninger), "Manual for Psychiatric Case Study," "Guide to Psychiatric Books" (with collaboration), "Theory of Psychoanalytic Technique," "The Vital Science" (with collaboration) and "The Crime of Punishment."

Barth Memorial Service

A public memorial service for Dr. Karl Barth, who died in Basel, Switzerland, December 10th, was held in Miller Chapel on December 16th.

President James I. McCord conducted the service, Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen read the Scripture and Dr. George S. Hendry gave the address.

Dr. Barth's six lectures delivered during the Seminary's Sesquicentennial were considered of such importance that Princeton University Chapel was pressed into use to accommodate crowds of up to 1,800. His insistence on the absoluteness of personal responsibility and on the sovereignty of God and his attacks on the Hitler regime brought about his expulsion from Germany in 1933.

Considered by many the world's leading Protestant theologian, Dr. Barth was 82 at the time of his death.

Lochman To Speak

"Christian Theology in a Marxist Society" will be the topic for four lectures by the Reverend Dr. Jan Milic Lochman, native of Nove Mesto, Czechoslovakia, on the evenings of March 3-6 at Princeton Seminary. Dr. Lochman was ordained a minister in the Evangelical Church of the Czech Brethren (Presbyterian) in 1943. He has been a member of the Comenius-Faculty of Theology, Prague, since 1950, from 1960 as Professor of Systematic Theology and Philosophy. Dr. Lochman is spending this year as the Harry Emerson Fosdick Visiting Professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York. His Princeton lectures are sponsored by the Seminary's Department of Theology.

Dr. Lochman's publications include: "Religious Thought of the Czech Enlightenment" (2 volumes), "Theology and Philosophy," and "Theology and the History of Religion" (all in Czech); "The Urgency of Reconciliation," "The Importance of Historical Events for Ethical Decisions," "The Church in a Changed World," and "The Lordship of Christ in a Secularized World" (all in German). He has been a contributor to leading Czech and ecumenical periodicals, including Theology Today, The Christian Century, The Scottish Journal of Theology, Communio Viatorum, Evangelische Theologie, The Lutheran World, The Ecumenical Review and Zeitschrift für evangelische Ethik, as well as to the symposium Christian Social Ethics in a Changing World.

1969 Alumni Roll Call to be Launched in January

The 15th annual giving appeal is being sent to all Princeton Theological Seminary alumni this month. Alumni Association President J. Charles McKirachan is hopeful that the response to the 1969 Roll Call will be the biggest and best yet.

At its meeting last June the Executive Council of the Alumni Association authorized a plan to call upon a number of alumni to serve as Regional Representatives. Their job will be to make follow-up telephone calls on those in their area to encourage participation in the Roll Call.

The cut-off date for the '69 campaign will be May 31, "by which date we hope that most of the responses will have been received," reports Director of Development Dick Armstrong, whose office is responsible for recording and acknowledging the Roll Call gifts.

In his letter to the alumni Dr. McKirachan points out that the Seminary must receive, over and above any income from tuition, endowment and the General Mission Budget of the United Presbyterian Church, more than a thousand dollars a day to meet its basic operating budget of nearly $3,000,000. The latter figure does not include any expenditures for capital improvements or development.

"For these reasons Princeton needs our support," declares Dr. McKirachan. "Every educational institution looks to its alumni for help, and we should be no less loyal to the Seminary which helped prepare us for the ministry than to our school or college."

The alumni president has issued a challenge to every alumnus to upgrade his Roll Call gift for 1969. "Give what you can, but give something!" That's the motto for '69, and the Alumni Council hopes everyone will live up to it.

TOM BRIAN (see the Autumn issue of the News) recently winkled us out of a warm office on a frosty morning to watch a spectacular nursery engineering feat. A crew of nine men using a truck-mounted teale removed an oxydendron from behind the old Princeton Borough Hall and replanted it behind Alexander.

Stated that baldly, the word "spectacular" might seem excessive. However, the tree, which grows wild over most of the southern mountains of the east, where it is known as sorrel-wood honey tree or sour wood, measured 36 feet in height. The ball of earth and roots alone weighed in the neighborhood of 5 tons. Before the tree was moved, the hole in which it was to be planted presented many problems. The site selected was that of the old Chapel; in digging, workmen constantly uncovered and had to remove large pieces of foundation work. The hole itself measured 10 feet across by 3 feet deep. And, as indicated above, the temperature was well below the freezing point, with icy gusts of wind swirling around Alexander and across the lawns.

The entire operation and the workers, including Tom, were supervised by an agitated mockingbird intent upon having his home re-erected to his own taste. C.

Herberg Lectures On Hegel

Dr. Will Herberg presented "Hegel and His Influence on Biblical Theology" in the Main Lounge of the Student Center on the evening of November 14th. Dr. Herberg, Professor of Philosophy and Culture at Drew University Graduate School, is the author of "Protestant, Catholic, Jew"; "Judaism and Modern Man"; "Martin Buber, Writings"; and "Four Existential Theologians." The program was sponsored by Koinonia.

Street Presents Mission Lectures

Dr. Street (right) with Jorge Lara-Braud, Director of the Hispanic-American Institute, Houston. Mr. Lara-Braud is completing his work toward a Th.D. at Princeton Seminary.

T. WATSON STREET, Executive Secretary of the Board of World Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., presented the three Mission Lectures on November 11 and 12. Under the heading "Some Current Concerns for the Christian World Mission," Dr. Street spoke on "How Do We Respond to Right-Wing Rigidity in an Overseas Sister Church?" "Does the Uniqueness of Christian Faith Weaken the Church's Effort to Serve All Humanity?" and "Are Christians More Provincial than Non-Christians?"

Dr. Street, who was Phi Beta Kappa and valedictorian of his class at Davidson College, holds a B.D. from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and an S.T.M. from Union Seminary, New York. In 1949 Davidson awarded him an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree, and he completed his Doctor of Theology work at Union.

Dr. Street served as Professor of Missions and Church History at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary from 1947 to 1961, when he assumed his present duties. He has been a delegate to meetings of the World Council of Churches in New Delhi and Mexico City and represents the Presbyterian Church, U.S., on the Consultation on Church Union. In July 1968, Dr. Street attended the meeting of the World Council of Churches at Uppsala.

His publications include "The Story of Southern Presbyterians," "On the Growing Edge of the Church" and "The Church and the Churches." He also revised and edited Walter L. Lingle's "Presbyterians: Their History and Beliefs."

FRY LECTURES ON VIOLENCE

[The Reverend Dr. John Fry addressed students and faculty members on "Violence as a Mode of Protest," at a special meeting held September 30 on the campus of Princeton Theological Seminary.]

Note on the Reverend Dr. John Fry

by William S. Dunifon*

Dr. John Fry, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church on Chicago's South Side and head of a program involving the Blackstone Rangers, told Princeton students that incorrect perception is basic to our society's mishandling of the problems of alienated youth.

Dr. Fry outlined what he termed the traditional perception, which assumes that certain economic, social and political conditions cause and perpetuate generations of young people who can only be dealt with through the courts. The alternative, according to Fry, is to assume that the alienated black youth will become creative members of the society once given the opportunity and freedom to become involved in their own way.

In his work with the Blackstone Rangers, a 4,000 member gang which operates near First Presbyterian Church, Fry has insisted that the organization design its own program and carry out its own discipline and administration. The results have been to open the dead-end ghetto view of life and the growing positive involvement of the young people.

Since Fry and his associates began work with the gang, there has been a significant decrease in the rate of violent crimes in the neighborhood, and the streets are growing safer than they have been in some time. In addition, the group is becoming increasingly involved politically, attempting to organize the neighborhood to oppose the political and economic policies of city hall which suppress south side residents.

* William S. Dunifon, BD '69, was a contributing editor to the Alumni News throughout his first two years at Princeton Seminary. He retired from the post this year in order to assume his new duties as President of the Student Association. The preceding contribution was written at the request of the editors because of Mr. Dunifon's knowledge of Dr. Fry's background.

Christmas Oratorio

Mr. Tipton

The Seminary's mixed choir of 45 voices presented a Christmas program in Miller Chapel on December 11th, under the direction of Clyde B. Tipton, Visiting Lecturer in Music.

The major work in the traditional event was Heinrich Schutz' "The Christmas Story." This, the last of Schutz' known works, was written in his 70's and represents the fulfillment of the promise shown in his earlier music. The first fragment was published in 1664. Not until 1885 was the complete oratorio available other than in manuscript, and the concerted numbers remained unknown until 1908. In that year Arnold Schering discovered the numbers, but no score, in the University Library of Uppsala, Sweden.

Among the soloists for "The Christmas Story" were Evelyn G. Cooper, Soprano; Gary Jon Cooper, Tenor; Robert C. Coppock, Tenor; and Paul C. Evans, Bass.

Other selections were three of Charles E. Ives' "Harvest Home Chorales for Eight Brasses and Organ" and Clyde B. Tipton's "Hodie Christus Natus Est," the latter sung by the unaccompanied choir.

Dr. van der Klei's publications include the dissertation "Tradition und Gedächtnis als Wesensvollzüge der Kirche" and the article "Stiftungen. Formaltheologisch" in Lexikon für Theologie und Kirche (latest edition).

Miss Janet Lacey, C.B.E., discussed "The Third World" at the Student Center on December 4th. The only woman among the 8 presidents of the 1966 Church and Society Conference of the World Council of Churches at Geneva, Miss Lacey was in 1960 awarded the honor of Commander of the Order of the British Empire in recognition of her leadership in the churches' work for refugees. From 1952 to 1968, she was Director of Christian Aid for the British Council of Churches; from 1954 to 1961, Chairman of the Refugee Committee of the World Council of Churches; and from 1961 to 1968, Vice Chairman for the Division of Inter-Church Aid, Refugee and World Service and Chairman of Specialized Assistance for Social Projects of the World Council of Churches.

Noting that economic and social development cannot easily be distinguished from social order and justice, Miss Lacey stated that the western world is so engrossed in its own present revolution as to lose sight of the Third World. She felt that the most important role of the Church in development is to inform the laity of the nature and scope of the needs of underdeveloped nations and to arouse that laity to helpful action.

The Church must become politically involved in order to lead Christians to demand an end to racial and religious discrimination, insist that governments practice fair trade with underdeveloped countries, encourage proper participation in the United Nations and see that overseas training programs for self-help continue.

Miss Lacey urged also that greater attention be paid members of the great non-Christian religions and those to whom God's life or death are irrelevant. She pointed out specific problems in nations whose life patterns have been broken by mores enforced by outside influences, whether of war or of trade.

Attention, Please!

A mild philosophic discursion.

Alumni news and alumni relations, like all other forms of communication, must be reciprocal. We are interested primarily in making your Alumni News interesting and stimulating to you. Campus events and personalities are sufficiently diverse that at least one or two items in each issue should claim your attention.

For information about your career and personalia, however, we are dependent upon your letters and all too rare visits.

Last spring the Class of '58 wrote a round-robin letter, the gleanings from which are, in part, apparent below. Your classmates—and your Seminary—would be genuinely pleased to have similar news of you.

In particular, all Alumni are requested to send printed bulletins of such occasions as ordinations, installations and other important events in their careers to the Office of the Secretary. We need these items in your personal file to provide accurate information for biographical purposes.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

May 1, 1969

Dear Fellow-Ministers:

The Consultation on Church Union, held this year in Atlanta, Georgia, was inspired by a sermon preached in Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake at the beginning of this decade. It now includes nine Protestant bodies with a combined membership of 25 million, and its goal is to form a united church that will be catholic, evangelical, and reformed.

It is appropriate to ask the question: Where are we now in church union? We are considerably beyond the point of its official beginning in May 1961, when a decision was made to attempt to restructure Protestantism within our generation. Such a decision was arrived at in concert with sister churches all over the globe—in Canada, Australia and New Zealand, North India and Ceylon, and in at least six African countries. This is more than a church union scheme. It is an attempt to reshape the face of the Protestant witness to the world today. We are considerably beyond the point reached at the Dallas meeting of the Consultation in 1966, when the Principles of Church Union were drawn up. The Dallas Consultation represented the ratification of the theological consensus reached by churches which have participated in Faith and Order work during the past three decades. We are now moving into the area of more creative work, where problems of order and flexibility, unity without conformity, and bigness without sacrificing the local must be dealt with in a fresh and compelling way and in a manner that will be relevant to the mission of the church in the last third of the twentieth century.

In Atlanta substantial progress was made in several areas. A Plan of Union Commission which had been working throughout the year submitted "A Preliminary Outline of a Plan of Union." There was a report from the Commission on the Unification of Ministries on "The Mingling of Ministries," "The Meaning of Presbyter in the United Church," and "The Diaconate in a United Church;" and a significant document on "Guidelines for Local Interchurch Action" was presented. It will be another year before the complete Plan of Union will be ready, but certain things are already clear. One is the strong emphasis on mission. A united church will not be an introverted church; it will be a community committed to and organized for the thrust of the Gospel into the world. Moreover, such a church will not be construed to have reached its goal when union is accomplished. It will be both a united and a uniting church. Many new elements have been added to the ecumenical picture since this decade began. The late Pope John flung open the windows of Roman Catholicism, Orthodoxy has become a much more impressive factor, and Protestant bodies not noted for their ecumenism show signs of stirring and movement toward unity.

There is also the emergence of a new sectarianism, with its strong emphasis on local unity and local action. It may well be that this form of ecumenism will furnish the impetus to bring historic traditions together in order to meet the challenges and dislocations of modern society. It must not be forgotten that the modern ecumenical enterprise grew out of a missionary commitment. It was deepened by Faith and Order concerns and studies. New dimensions of catholicity were explored and appropriated, but a further impulse was needed, the impulse to move beyond present structures into new and relevant forms of service which will express Christ's way of ordering the church in the present.

Faithfully yours,

James I. McCord

157TH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

A record 221 recipients of degrees marched in the academic procession June 4, as Princeton Theological Seminary celebrated its 157th annual Commencement. Of particular interest to the Church is the unusually high number—109—who became Bachelors of Divinity; added to these was one recipient of a Certificate in Theology. Other degrees awarded included 17 Masters of Religious Education, 86 Masters of Theology and 9 Doctors of Theology.

John M. Templeton, LL.D., President of the Board of Trustees, gave the Invocation. Mr. William D. Carr, President of the Senior Class, read the Scripture; and the Reverend Dr. Clifford G. Pollock, '37, Minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Morrisville, Pennsylvania, led the congregation in prayer.

The graduates and their guests were then privileged to hear the Reverend Dr. Krister Stendahl, Dean of the Faculty of Divinity and John Lord O'Brian Professor of Divinity at Harvard University, speak on "Revolution: Rhetoric and Reality."

Dr. Stendahl, ordained a priest of the Church of Sweden in 1944, was an assistant pastor in the diocese of Stockholm and later Chaplain at Uppsala. He was President of the Student Christian Movement in Sweden in 1954 and has had various assignments under the World Council of Churches and the Lutheran World Federation. He is a member of the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship, the Studiorum Novi Testamenti Societas, The Nathan Soderblom Society, the Society Pro Fide et Christianismo and the Council of the World Union of Jewish Studies. He is a Fellow of the Society for Religion in Higher Education and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Fellowships and Prizes were announced by the Reverend Dr. Frederick E. Christian, '34, Secretary of the Board of Trustees.

Following the conferring of degrees, Dr. McCord delivered his farewell address to the new graduates and pronounced the Benediction.

Because of the unprecedented number of graduates and guests, services were held in the Chapel of Princeton University.

The Rev. Dr. Krister Stendahl

GOD IS ALIVE AND WELL IN AMERICA

 "Ted" Fiske received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1963. He is the New York Times Religion Editor.

Americans have always been known as a religious people.

The Declaration of Independence grounded the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in God's creative act. Coins bear the words "In God we trust." As recently as 1954, Congress added the phrase "under God" to the Pledge of Allegiance.

Last week the Gallup Poll released two surveys confirming that this high degree of religiousness continues despite rather sharp declines in both belief and practice in other Western countries.

The first showed that while the church attendance boom of the fifties continues to taper off, Americans still worship more regularly than the citizens of any other country.

It reported that on an average Sunday morning 50 million Americans, or 43 per cent of the adult population, could be found in church. Other percentages ranged from the Netherlands (42) and Austria (38) to Norway (14), Sweden (9) and Finland (5).

The second poll found that Americans also hold to orthodox Christian beliefs with greater tenacity than their Western neighbors.

Even the Devil

Ninety-eight per cent of the Americans surveyed, for instance, said that they believe in God; 73 per cent believe in life after death; 65 per cent believe in hell; 60 per cent believe in the devil.

Except for belief in the devil, where Greece showed a figure of 67 per cent, American orthodoxy was consistently higher than any of the other 11 countries surveyed. In Britain, for instance, only 77 per cent said they believed in God, 38 per cent in life after death, 23 per cent in hell and 21 per cent in the devil.

The reasons for this high degree of American religiosity have been frequently debated, and a degree of consensus has emerged among historians, theologians and sociologists.

'Civil Religion'

One major element was certainly the fact that American churches supported democratic principles from the outset. This meant that the government formed after the American Revolution could ally itself with religious principles, and it led to the development of what is known as "civil religion," or a broad set of vaguely defined religious ideas, such as belief in God, that most citizens accept and to which high government officials pay homage on occasions such as inaugurations and the Fourth of July.

More important, however, acceptance of democracy by the churches also meant that the United States escaped the anti-clericalism now rampant in Europe. In France the Roman Catholic church is still paying the price of supporting the wrong side in the French Revolution.

Another element in the continuing vitality of American religion, most scholars agree, is its voluntary nature.

Robert T. Handy, professor of church history at Union Theological Seminary in Manhattan, for instance, noted last week that in contrast to countries with state-supported churches, American churches have had to develop enthusiastic and committed laymen to survive. "This has resulted in both freedom and enduring loyalties," he stated.

One product of this voluntarism, according to James M. Gustafson of the Yale Divinity School, is that churches have had to accommodate their teachings to the demands of laymen in order to "keep the customers coming."

While this has led to a certain theological laxity and acceptance of religious symbols, such as the devil, without serious questioning of their intellectual context, Dr. Gustafson suggested that this has also minimized the clash of orthodox religious symbols with the modern secular culture.

"American laymen have not always been sure exactly what they were praying to," he said, "but they've also never been told they had to accept 'these six dogmas.'"

A final factor in American religiosity, it is generally agreed, is the country's religious pluralism.

Definition and Competition

The Rev. Andrew Greeley, a prominent Catholic sociologist, noted that in most countries where religious interest is still high, such as Ireland, Switzerland, Holland and Canada, there are several faiths competing for the allegiance of the individual. "Religion becomes a way of defining yourself," he declared.

The price of pluralism has been duplication and a good deal of wasted resources as the churches competed with each other. As in other fields, however, competition also seems to have had the beneficial result of giving American religion more vitality.

Ironically, the ecumenical movement in this sense may tend to dampen religious commitment by reducing the number of churches competing for the loyalty of the individual.

WHAT DO SENIORS REALLY DO AFTER GRADUATION?

by Arthur M. Byers, Jr.*

(From a report to the Department of Ministerial Relations' Regional Meeting, December 30, 1968.)

Graduates of Princeton Seminary serve in every state of the Union; the average graduating class will scatter to about 25 states. Because of its location, Princeton Seminary has a great concentration of alumni in the Synods of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England, which receive many of our seniors as pastors and assistants after graduation.

Pastors and executives often ask me questions about the graduating classes today, questions which boil down to the title of this paper: "What Do Seniors Really Do after Graduation?" Many generalized statistics are being published. Some reflect current trends across the church; others would be misleading if applied to Princeton Theological Seminary. Let me share the facts as I have observed them for the past five years. The tone and mood of the questions are often such as to question the Christian motives and commitment of these seniors. The responses of the seniors, on the contrary, should be a source of much pride, confidence and encouragement to pastors and to the churches.

Presbyterian Life for January 1, 1969, echoes the plaintive mood of some of these questioners. On page 23 one reads, "In addition, there have been indications that even in basic programs fewer and fewer students intend to serve traditional local parishes upon graduation. So the question of the number of future ministers remains clouded and is aggravated by increasing resignations of those already ordained." When the prestigious Presbyterian Life issues such observations in a million copies, it is easy to see why many readers assume these statements are universal facts. The proportion of Princeton Seminary graduates entering some form of ministry each year ranges between 65 and 75%.

On February 1, 1964, I became Secretary of Princeton Theological Seminary. In that role I have counselled and guided seniors on their post-graduation vocational steps. Let me, therefore, emphasize that I am speaking from here on within certain definite boundaries.

1. I am speaking only about seniors at Princeton Theological Seminary.
2. During their senior year, I have interviewed all men and women in the B.D. and M.R.E. programs for the years 1964 through 1968 and am currently in the midst of interviews with the Class of 1969.
3. As Alumni Secretary I keep in touch with these graduates; consequently, I know where most of them are and what they are doing.
4. The vast majority of these students, but not all, are United Presbyterians when they enter seminary. The vast majority, but not all, become ordained after graduation and serve United Presbyterian churches. A few perform their chosen work as United Presbyterian laymen.
5. In terms of numbers, Princeton Seminary has awarded the following degrees to those who have recently completed prescribed courses. Today, just as in the past 157 years of the Seminary's history, there are those who drop out along the way. "Drop-out" is not by any means a new category in theological education.

This means that I have interviewed and counselled 507 seniors. There are 122 more seniors in the Class of 1969. Any conclusions drawn in this paper are based on more than 600 senior interviews at Princeton Seminary.

All statistics in this paper are very carefully stated and limits defined, to preclude innocent misunderstanding or willful distortion of data presented here. I am sensitive to the need for clarity and accuracy, since these kinds of data are often badly handled.

What, in general, are seniors like today? Times change, and the presuppositions of the 1930's, '40's and '50's do not necessarily apply in the same way in the 1960's. The students of today are the products of the church of yesterday and today. They reflect the changes which have occurred in their parents, their homes, their churches and their communities. The space age differs from past decades. These seniors are a product of the contemporary ministerial leadership.

Seminary study is graduate work in a professional school. Now, as always, most seniors treat seminary as the last step in their formal education. They are now ready and prepared to move into employment, usually in the church, and most do just that.

This is an age of specialization. Nearly all ministers are life-long students by nature and by necessity. Many seniors want to engage in post-B.D. study. Some enter a one-year course for the Th.M. degree. Many try to serve in churches which allow them to pursue the Th.M. course in a Monday program. Some B.D. graduates specialize by taking the M.R.E. course. An attraction currently in much favor is clinical training in an accredited teaching hospital. In 1968 alone, 9 men out of a class of 90 recipients of the B.D. degree went from Princeton Seminary to six different hospitals for a full year of clinical study, and one other completed a four-month clinical course before returning to his overseas home.

In almost every class there are some women in the B.D. course. Few become ordained ministers. Most are already wives of seminarians; others become wives of seminarians or of ministers. Therefore, for statistical purposes, women tend to detract from the proportion of seniors who become pastors or assistant pastors.

A few seniors have come to seminary with no intention of entering the ordained ministry as pastors of congregations. Some plan to teach. Some, aided by such recent programs as the Rockefeller fellowships, come on quests, testing whether theology is "their thing." These programs permit the undecided student to explore and perhaps go into theology, when he might otherwise never have tested the field at all. It is on the whole a creative, hopeful and healthy situation.

Some seniors come from strong home churches led by ministers who have a high concept of ministry. Others come with weak concepts, reflecting poor congregational backgrounds. Still others come because of conversion experiences and have never known a supportive "home church." Certain congregations and some colleges are known as sources of a continuous flow of candidates to the seminary.

Usually there are in the seminary a few older men with up to 20 years' experience in other callings, who have deliberately changed vocations at middle life. These often have children in college.

More than half the seniors are married, some even before they enter seminary, others during their years here. Many have small children by the time they are seniors. Many wives work to support their student-husbands, usually as teachers, nurses or secretaries. This is a new feature in seminary life and a marked change for those who remember the 1930's and 1940's.

Women usually comprise the large majority in the M.R.E. program. Many, because of marriage to seminarians, never become D.C.E.'s. However, although lost to the ranks of professionally employed Christian educators, they nevertheless serve within the church. They do not show up statistically as employed, but who can disclaim their effectiveness in the churches as wives? The only people from this program who enter the ordained ministry are those we call post-B.D. M.R.E.'s, or an occasional man who changes from the two-year M.R.E. course to the three-year B.D. course, in which he must normally work for another two years.

The expectations, possibilities and actual performance of the B.D.'s and the M.R.E.'s are quite different. I have therefore separated the statistical statements of the two groups.

Two features of seminary life have altered the program and the in-seminary experience of students: the internship program and the field education program, both carefully supervised by the Department of Field Education. What happens to a student under these circumstances can radically alter his perceptions and goals between the junior and senior years.

There was no real equivalent to the internship in earlier years. Today's field education is vastly different from yesterday's improvised work programs. Participation in either program in a good model of parish life is an unbeatable educational method to develop potential pastors and to detect and dissuade those who should work in non-pastoral activities. Neither is any more perfect than the humans who run it, but both represent a great advance in the United Presbyterian Church.

There are often in our senior class foreign students in training for service in the younger churches, selected young men designated to become teachers in their own countries. This training is a service we render to churches in other lands, a part of missionary outreach, performed formerly by missionaries who went out as teachers.

Some seniors turn to two occupations after graduation (i.e., graduate student and assistant minister). I have chosen the dominant occupation in categorizing seniors in the tables below.

To summarize: By the time a seminarian becomes a senior, his career decisions may be affected, other than by his studies, by any or several of ten factors:

1. He may have reached full employment readiness.
2. He may decide to specialize through further study in the Th.M., Th.D. or Ph.D. programs at a theological seminary or university.
3. Women may be diverted from ministry by marriage or by the nature of the employment opportunities available to them.
4. The vocational uncertainty of some seminarians may persist through the senior year. Not all people mature equally with chronological age.
5. The concept of ministry and parish life is affected by good or bad models in the student's past experience. Those with good models will usually persist toward their goals even when the going is hard.
6. Older men usually are strongly determined to enter and succeed in the ministry, and they leaven the class by their common sense and experience.
7. A high percentage of seniors is married, many with children. The great investment of time, money and effort by the husband-wife team usually strengthens the student's tenacity and the clarity of his goals.

*Arthur Mahlon Byers, Jr., is a graduate of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, and holds a Master of Science degree in Chemistry from the University of Pennsylvania and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. At one time head of the Science Department of Chestnut Hill Academy, Mr. Byers was an instructor in chemistry at Drexel Institute of Technology when he felt called to the ministry. Upon graduation from the Seminary, he was called as pastor of the Wissinoming Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia. In 1953 he was appointed Secretary for audiovisual productions in the Department of Stewardship and Promotion of the United Presbyterian Church, New York City, where he served until, in 1964, he became Secretary of Princeton Theological Seminary. During World War II, Mr. Byers served as Captain in the Army of the United States, primarily in the European Theater of Operations. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and of Sigma Chi, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Westminster Choir College and Chairman of the Local Assistance Board of Princeton Township.

8. The vocational choices are different for B.D. and M.R.E. candidates, although both can serve effectively within the church.

9. Internships and field education influence vocational decision-making.

10. Foreign students normally return to their own countries and do not serve in churches in the United States.

Others might point out different factors at work. One could examine theological position, degree of personal Christian commitment and conversion experiences; these certainly affect vocational decisions. But the foregoing ten factors are basic to interpretation of the statistics on senior placement. The bare, unexplained figures for any graduating class can mislead outsiders, if they assume that every senior automatically is and should be ready, willing and able to enter some form of parish ministry.

There is today a process of cycling into ministry by the route of further study. Many who choose the Th.M. program, a year of study abroad or a clinical course in a hospital will actually complete their study cycle and then enter the ministry. They are not a detectable, measurable or publicized statistic by the time that they, who as B.D. seniors appeared lost to the ministry, slide quietly into some form of it.

Other men move into the Th.D. or Ph.D. programs and enter the ministry as teachers. After a four- to six-year submergence in the stacks of some library, they emerge with doctorates in hand and colorful hoods upon their shoulders. These, too, must be accounted for in our analyses, especially since many become ordained ministers.

Presbyterian Life, referred to earlier, noted that "the rise in post-basic course students and the development of more extensive graduate programs seem to indicate a widely felt need for further education to keep abreast of rapidly changing conditions, as well as to prepare for specialized forms of ministry."

In each of the last four years, Princeton Seminary has granted nearly as many Th.M. as B.D. degrees. The figures for this seminary for a 25-year period are worth noting at this point. All of these men first received B.D. degrees at some time from this or another accredited seminary.

This rise in the number of graduate degrees seems to indicate a felt need by ministers; otherwise it would be impossible to recruit for such time-consuming and demanding programs.

Let me mention one more fact of ministerial life observed during my experience as Secretary of the Seminary. Ministers are a mobile lot. My office keeps track of address changes of our alumni. It is a never-ending task. In 1968, for every hundred alumni on our roll we made twenty address changes. We have this year made over 1200 changes in our files, not including plates for new graduates. It is not easy, therefore, to make a survey of all of our alumni. It is time consuming to make even such a study as this.

According to the following tables, Princeton Seminary contributes significantly to the life of the United Presbyterian Church. A very high percentage of graduating B.D.'s, usually about 65 to 70%, enter and remain in the pastoral ministry. Although I have not yet completed similarly detailed research on the Classes of 1965, 1966 and 1967, the figures approximate those for 1964 and 1968.

Considering the inescapable losses in each class (women who marry and do not enter the ministry, foreign students who return home, seniors who become teachers as they originally purposed, some who wisely enter a secular occupation) these tables will show a remarkably high proportion of graduates who enter and stay in the ministry. If the results at Princeton Seminary are contrary to common impression, then our friends and alumni should use these facts in every way possible to publicize the positive side of the ministerial picture.

REGIONAL REPS RESPOND

Indicative of the loyalty of Princeton Seminary alumni has been the response of those asked to serve as Regional Representatives for the Alumni Roll Call. Regional Supervisor James K. Quay made telephone calls to enlist men for the job. The first man to be called was too busy to accept the responsibility. The next 51 men said yes and were pleased to be asked!

"This was one of the most satisfying experiences of my life," said Dr. Quay. "The enthusiastic response of our alumni to our call to serve was a marvelous testimony to the place which Princeton Seminary holds in their hearts."

Each of the Regional Reps was asked to enlist Area Representatives, and they in turn to ask others, to help reach every alumnus by telephone or personal call. The results of the calls were then funneled back to the Roll Call Office.

Dr. Quay estimates that more than 300 workers are involved in the campaign. The following are serving as Regional Representatives:

ROLL CALL ROLLS

The 1969 Alumni Roll Call got off to a record-breaking start and by the end of February had already exceeded the 1968 total of $12,300 announced at last June's

Alumni Meeting, according to Roll Call Coordinator Dick Armstrong.

As this issue goes to press the response was over $28,000. "The tremendous increase is thanks to the efforts of our Regional and Area Representatives and those working with them," reports Mr. Armstrong. "These men have done a terrific job of contacting their fellow alumni to enlist their support in the annual giving campaign."

One of the most gratifying aspects of the campaign has been the overwhelmingly favorable response of the alumni, many of whom have written to express their appreciation for what Princeton Seminary has meant to them. From Iran came a gift with this note: "I'm sorry and apologetic that at this time I cannot do more for the cause. But I do want to be counted at Class Roll Call."

From North Dakota another alumnus writes: "Will attempt to send gift, for I now realize, to a fuller extent, the need. I will certainly do what I can—Princeton means much to me."

Whether or not a person actually received a degree from Princeton seems to make little difference in his response, according to Mr. Armstrong. "Some of our most generous donors are those who were here only a year or two." One writes from Texas: "Although I am a member of another denomination (Southern Baptist), I deeply appreciated my sojourn at Princeton Seminary during 1953-54. Enclosed is a check in a modest amount, but which is a token of my debt and gratitude for the contribution of Princeton Seminary to my life and ministry."

First to respond to Alumni Association President J. Charles McKirachan's 1969 appeal letter was the Rev. William M. Hunter, '41, Port Jervis, New York, whose gift was mailed special delivery the same day the request was received. Contributions were also received from alumni even before the appeal letter went out.

Mr. Armstrong explained that the Alumni Roll Call figures do not include other alumni giving—only those gifts received in direct response to the Roll Call appeal. The Office of Development maintains records of giving both by classes and by state and reported the results above at the June 3 Alumni Banquet.

DR. WATERMULDER TO HEAD BUILDING DRIVE

The Reverend David B. Watermulder, '45, has been appointed by the Board of Trustees to serve as General Chairman of the Committee which will head the $1,590,000 capital funds campaign for the new residence hall, to be named Erdman Hall in memory of Charles R. and Estelle Pardee Erdman.

Himself a Trustee of Princeton Seminary, Dr. Watermulder is Senior Minister of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church and is currently President of the Board of National Missions of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. Before being called to Bryn Mawr, he served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Oak Park, Ill.

Named as Honorary Chairman was the Reverend Peter K. Emmons, Trustee Emeritus and a long-time friend of Dr. and Mrs. Erdman. Dr. Emmons was pastor of the Westminster Church of Scranton, Pennsylvania, from 1927 until his retirement in 1958. He served for many years as President of the Board of Trustees of the Seminary.

In accepting his important responsibilities as campaign chairman, Dr. Watermulder expressed the hope that "every Princeton Seminary alumnus will participate in our effort to meet this tremendous challenge. Many of us will benefit directly from the new building, since one of its wings will be used to accommodate those attending seminars and conferences at the Center of Continuing Education."

The campaign was officially launched on Alumni Day, June 3. In addition to Dr. Watermulder and Dr. Emmons, the Steering Committee includes the Reverend Melvin R. Campbell, Mrs. Earl H. Hoffman, the Reverend Elmer G. Homrighausen, Mr. J. Keith Loudon, the Reverend C. Frederick Mathias, Mr. Robert L. McNeil, Mr. W. Beverly Murphy, Dr. William H. Scheide and Mr. John R. Templeton.

Rev. David B. Watermulder

"Certainly there is no more beloved figure in the history of the Seminary, and indeed the entire Presbyterian Church, than Charles Erdman," said Dr. Watermulder. "Many of us have pleasant memories of happy times spent in the Erdman home. Some remember Dr. Erdman as a pastor and some as their professor, but all of us who knew him, remember him as a friend. His admirers are legion, and I know our alumni will agree that the new residence hall will be a fitting memorial to a wonderful couple whose name has meant much to Princeton."

NEW RESIDENCE HALL TO HONOR DR. AND MRS. CHARLES ERDMAN

Construction on the new residence hall, the first to be built by Princeton Seminary in this century, is expected to begin in late summer. The three-story building will be called Erdman Hall, in memory of Charles R. and Estelle Pardee Erdman.

A beloved figure in the history of the Presbyterian Church, Dr. Erdman was a member of the Princeton Seminary faculty from 1905 to 1936, during which time he occupied the Chair of Practical Theology. While on the Seminary faculty Dr. Erdman also served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton for ten years (1924-1934). In 1928 he was elected Moderator of the General Assembly, in which role he was an instrument of reconciliation at a time when the denomination was sorely torn. Before coming to Princeton he had been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Germantown, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Upon his retirement in 1936 he and Mrs. Erdman continued to live in the Seminary-owned residence on the site of the building which will bear their name.

One of the most pressing needs Erdman Hall will help to meet is that brought on by the new emphasis on continuing education. The Church has joined business and industry in recognizing and providing for the continuing education of its leaders. Each year more than 1000 ministers and laymen have been attending conferences and seminars in the Center of Continuing Education on the Seminary campus. As interest increases, the need for adequate housing becomes ever more urgent. The new residence hall will more than triple the number who can be accommodated during the various activities at the Center throughout the year.

With the inauguration of a Summer School program in 1970, facilities will be available for ministers who want to pursue formal programs in continuing education and for other students engaged in special projects or studies. Thus the Seminary facilities will be in full use for twelve months of the year. Air-conditioned Erdman Hall will provide comfortable and convenient housing for those involved in the summer program.

The new residence hall will also help to alleviate the problem of finding housing for scholars and churchmen attending the Institute of Theology. Many of the participants in the past have had to find housing off campus.

The present student enrollment of 640 is the largest in Princeton Seminary's history. One wing of Erdman Hall will provide housing for some of these students.

SECOND-SEMESTER FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

Paul Robert Abrecht

Graham N. Stanton

The second semester of the past academic year brought to the Princeton campus a distinguished trio of minister-professors of widely varied backgrounds.

The Reverend Dr. Paul Robert Abrecht, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, taught a course in Ecumenics. Dr. Abrecht, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of California, received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary, New York. After ordination in the Baptist church, he became a Tutor in Applied Christian Ethics at Union. From 1955 to 1961 Dr. Abrecht was Director of the special six-year ecumenical study program on the Common Christian Responsibility toward Areas of Rapid Social Change. Since 1954 he has been Executive Secretary of the World Council of Churches Department of Churches and Society. Dr. Abrecht was general editor of the four study volumes and co-editor for the Official Report of the World Conference on the Church and Society, 1966. He is author of "The Churches and Rapid Social Change" and of many articles on ecumenical social thought. He comes to Princeton from Union, where he is a Visiting Professor of World Christianity.

The Reverend Dr. Sam Horace Franklin, Jr., also taught Ecumenics. Dr. Franklin, a native of Dandridge, Tennessee, holds a B.A. from Maryville College, a B.D. from McCormick Theological Seminary and an S.T.M., magna cum laude, from Union Theological Seminary. He won a Doctor of Theology degree from Tokyo Union Theological Seminary and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by Maryville. An ordained Presbyterian minister, Dr. Franklin served as Chaplain with the U.S. Naval Reserve from 1943 to 1945. He was made Professor Emeritus of Tokyo Union Theological Seminary, where he had served since 1947, this past year. At the same time, he was awarded the Order of the Sacred Treasure (Fourth Class) by the Government of Japan.

The Reverend Graham N. Stanton presented a course in New Testament. Mr. Stanton holds a B.A., an M.A. with Honors in History and a B.D. from the University of Otago, in his native New Zealand. He has also studied Theology at Knox Theological Hall, Dunedin, New Zealand; New Testament Studies at Westminster College; and New Testament at the University of Zurich. His dissertation for the Ph.D. degree, "The Primitive Preaching and Jesus of Nazareth," was recently completed.

MAN ON CAMPUS

Duplicating and Mailing

The Duplicating and Mailing Department handles approximately 675,000 regularly scheduled pieces of mail each school year. This does not include such items as Wives' Fellowship, Faculty Wives and occasional class letters.

Of these pieces, approximately 91,000 must be inserted in envelopes, 20,000 by hand; all second and third class mail must then be hand-sorted by Zip code, bundled and tied. This includes The Spire (130,000 copies), the Alumni News (6,000+) and The Catalogue (1850).

Between September and February, 2850 new addressograph plates were made, most of them alumni changes of address, which average 35 per week. All addressograph plates used for second and third class mailings are filed alphabetically within zip code areas. To change an address, the operator must have the old zip code to locate the old plate. For each new plate a label and three 3 x 5 cards is made. Two years ago, two cabinets held The Spire addresses; now seven cabinets are required. The 25,000 addresses added this year had to be sorted by zip, alphabetized and fitted in with the older plates; three part-time employees worked four months on this project alone. After The Spire Christmas Letter was mailed, returned mail disclosed 6000 obsolete plates to be withdrawn. The forwarding dates had expired or the addressee had died.

The vitally important Multilith/Offset enables the staff to print about 200,000 sheets of paper and approximately 30,000 cards of various sizes each year, as well as letters, tests, syllabi, book lists, various materials which faculty members want to distribute and all Seminary and office stationery. Here the student Viewpoint is printed and collated every two weeks. Only lack of manpower precludes printing return addresses on envelopes, applications and other forms, most of the institution's promotional literature, and the Wineskin.

The three full-time staff members are Howard J. Kline, William Penix and Mary Anne Evans. Howard Kline is the supervisor. In addition to his administrative duties, he operates the multilith, orders and dispenses all regular office supplies and answers a rather amazing range of questions. He is the only qualified Key Operator for the two Xerox 2400's on campus and the only one qualified to set up and repair the duplicating and mailing machinery. He also is responsible for maintaining sufficient supplies and regulating personal and official student and faculty use of the Xerox machines.

Bill Penix has charge of the Mail Room and of student assistants for the Spire mailings. Bill wraps and mails all packages; sorts all second and third class mail and remembers the postal regulations on bundling and bagging; picks up and delivers mail at the Post Office three times a day on routine and usually at least once more on an emergency rush basis; and often operates the folding and inserting machine and the collator.

Mrs. Evans, wife of a Seminary student, types, repairs and files addressograph plates and tabs them for special uses. She also operates the addressographs, the collator and the folding machine and handles correspondence.

Two students help out, each for two hours a day; one operates the Multilith and the other helps with loading the addressograph, filing and inserting.

Next time you receive a Spire, Alumni News, Bulletin, Wineskin or other special mailing—next time you read a press release from your Seminary in your local paper—no matter from which Seminary office it came, the Duplicating and Mailing Department did much to bring the news from us to you.

"...A CALLING?"

An experimental film, "...A Calling?" was submitted in lieu of a term paper by the Christianity in Essence and Existence students of Dr. Hugh T. Kerr's Theology course. The film, made with the assistance of Wayne R. Whitelock, Director of Audio-Visual Services, portrays in abstract the life of a student minister. An attaché case symbolizes the restlessness which keynotes the activities portrayed. The enthusiasm of all concerned, including the audiences at the various performances, spilled over later into "Youth Speaks Up," a regular program of Princeton radio station WHWH-WTOE. On February 16 and 23, the five Seminarians who produced the film discussed its symbolism and answered the questions posed by some 15 Princeton area high school students. Copies of the film are available, on a limited basis.

Blizzard

Dr. SAMUEL W. BLIZZARD travelled to Austin Seminary, Texas, in March to present a lecture "The Church in Community Institutions."

Brian

THOMAS W. BRIAN, Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, reports that the 135-year-old silver maple which grew just outside President McCord's office windows in the Administration Building, had to be removed because of decayed limbs which for some years had had to be cabled together for safety. While topping the tree, prior to total removal, the workmen discovered that the entire trunk was full of fungus. Within a week the maple was replaced by a 20-foot blue spruce, gift of his personal friend, Charles Baunach, a member of the Kingston (N.J.) Presbyterian Church. The spruce, which had a 3-ton ball of earth and roots, is well protected by guy wires; the lawn in which it was planted has been roped off for additional safety.

Snow removal has proved a major work factor this winter. Several men on Tom's force worked for 15 straight hours and all day Sunday, following the second heavy snow of the season. The work was considerably hampered by cars left on campus roads and by the fact that several of the men were snowed in to their homes or were unable to get through on the drifted highways.

Coffman

Dr. WILLIAM E. COFFMAN, Visiting Lecturer in Education, read his paper "Implications of National Assessment for Educational Measurement" at the February meeting of the American Educational Research Association, in Los Angeles. Starting in February he led a ten-week Saturday Bible study series offered in conjunction with a new Christian Education Program sponsored by the Roman Catholic diocese of Paterson, New Jersey. This new venture "will attempt to expose both Catholic clergy and lay persons to theological study in the framework of a diocesan Christian education center." The title of the course is "Images of Christ in the New Testament." On March 6 Dr. Froehlich participated with Professor Jaroslav Pelikan of Yale in a symposium sponsored by the Church History Colloquium, the Theology Club and the Church History Department of Harvard Divinity School upon the occasion of the Publication of Harvard professor James S. Preus' new book "From Shadow to Promise: Old Testament Interpretation from Augustine to the Young Luther."

In his second semester course, Shapes of Christian Piety, Dr. Homrighausen scheduled an interesting series of lecturers representing Orthodox, Lutheran, Roman Catholic, Methodist and Anglican churches, Mennonites and Friends and "others from the class representing pieties of 'younger churches.'"

Contrary to the belief of many of our alumni, Dr. Homrighausen has not retired. Like all administrators at the Seminary, he retired from the deanship at 65; but he continues as professor until mandatory retirement from his teaching responsibilities.

SERVICE IN MUSIC

Senior high school students from the Franklin Lakes, New Jersey, area presented a special service of orchestral and vocal music in Miller Chapel on February 14. The 29 young men and women, part of a youth group from Franklin Lakes Presbyterian Church, were under the direction of Donald M. Mackenzie, Jr., and J. W. Gregory Meister, second year Seminary students. The regular form of service was followed, with folk hymns replacing the more usual anthems and two guitars and an electric bass instead of the organ. Miss Linda Hoover, a member of the group, sang an introit which she had written. Reaction among the large congregation was mixed; an overwhelming majority agreed that the service was a moving, valid expression of faith in God.

MTSHALI OF ZAMBIA

Dr. Benedict V. Mtshali, Professor of Political Science at the University of Zambia, discussed "The Church in Black South Africa" in the main lounge of the Campus Center, February 14. Dr. Milan Machovec

"ON BEING HUMAN"

Dr. Milan Machovec, Professor of Philosophy at Charles University, Prague, lectured "On Being Human—a Marxist View" at the Campus Center lounge, February 27, sponsored by Koinonia. He has for years been a leader in the Christian-Marxist dialogue; his frequent opponent in the continuing discussions is also one of his best friends, Dr. Joseph Hromadka, former Dean of Comenius Theological Faculty and President of the Christian Peace Conference.

The following quotation reflects Dr. Machovec's thinking on religion, Marx and man: "Christians as enemies? Never! Christians as such are our brothers and fellow human beings . . . We both want to help each other toward a better life, and together to become engaged and involved in working for the common goals of all humanity . . . Christianity is not an enemy ideology insofar as it is really Christ-ianity; that is, the active following of Jesus in this world . . . engagement of oneself for service to this world; the endeavor to follow the example of Jesus in relation to moral questions, to remain open to the world, and to endeavor to be always be ready to dialogue with it; the endeavor, in tension with the eschatological view, to make 'everything new' in this world, which means to patiently serve our real fellow humans in order that they might become more human—more themselves."

SOMERVILLE ON BLONDEL

James M. Somerville, S.J., presented an open lecture on "The Philosophy of Maurice Blondel" in Stevenson Lounge on March 24, under the auspices of the Department of Philosophy. Dr. Somerville, Editor of the International Philosophical Quarterly of Fordham University's Department of Philosophy, was the 1961 recipient of the Catholic Press Association Award for scholarly publications. He was one of the first expositors of Blondel's phenomenology in this country; his book "Total Commitment: Blondel's l'Action" is considered definitive.

SEMINARY RIDER COLLEGE CONCERT

The combined Seminary Oratorio Choir and Rider College Chorus presented a memorable public concert on the evenings of March 24 and 25. The first presentation was in Miller Chapel; the second, in the Fine Arts Theater at Rider.

The first part of the program, sung by the Seminary students only, was an original free cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Gary Jon Cooper, a senior at the Seminary. The work comprises a four-part fugue for spoken voices, recitatives, choruses and solos, bound by a narrative thread. Dr. W. J. Beeners, Chairman of the Speech Department, was narrator. Soloists included Dr. S T Kimbrough, as Jesus; Paul Evans (Sp), bass, presenting the fore-shadowing of the Crucifixion in Psalm XXII; and Robert Coppock ('70), tenor, as the penitent thief. Robert Sanderson, '69, played the organ accompaniment. The occasion marked the first presentation of this work to any audience.

The choruses then united to present Part III of Handel's "Messiah," accompanied by Hadley Yost, organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, New Jersey. Soloists were Gary Jon Cooper and his wife, Evelyn.

The entire production was directed by Clyde B. Tipton, member of the Rider College faculty and Visiting Lecturer in Music at the Seminary.

SANDERS AT PRINCETON

The Reverend Robert E. Sanders, newly elected minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Ann Arbor, Michigan, preached at an extended chapel service on March 26. After graduation from Miami University, Ohio, Bob joined the production and special events staff of Radio Station WSTU, Steubenville, Ohio, from which he went as sales representative to Radio Station WEIR, Weirton, West Virginia. From West Virginia he came to the Seminary. Upon ordination, he served for two years as assistant minister in the First Presbyterian Church of Englewood, New Jersey, coming back to the Seminary in 1957 as assistant to President John A. Mackay. Three years later he became head of the Department of Radio and Television for the Synod of New Jersey. Bob has been in Utica since 1963.

MODERATOR'S VISIT

The Reverend Dr. John Coventry Smith, Moderator of the 180th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., preached at the regular chapel exercises April 9. Later in the day President James I. McCord was host at a faculty luncheon honoring Dr. Smith, in the small dining room of the Campus Center.

A SPECIAL MINISTRY

If you have received, as we recently did, the January issue of Presbyview, look again at the photographs.

The brochure describes the interdenominational program of education and service at Presbyterian-University of Pennsylvania Medical Center which each year involves some 50 seminarians and resident chaplains.

Secretary Byers points out that, of six resident chaplains pictured, five are graduates of Princeton Seminary: Harry E. Capps, Stanley R. Kessler, Edward B. Mitchell and David C. Myler, Jr., all B.D. '68, and William R. Wycoff, B.D. '57, Th.M. '68.

The brochure concludes "... it is a ministry of total involvement in a world—in a time—in a place that needs it very much."

ALUMNI DAY, NEW STYLE

This year's Alumni Day, June 3, as those of you who could return to campus know, marked not only the various class reunions but also the 80th birthday of Dr. John Alexander Mackay, '15, Seminary President from 1936 to 1959.

The theme for the day, "The Bible and the Church Today," was carried out in morning and afternoon seminars on "The Place of the Bible in the Present Situation" conducted by Dr. Bernhard W. Anderson, Professor of Old Testament Theology at the Seminary, and Dr. Gregory G. Baum, OSA, Professor of Theology at Saint Michael's College in the University of Toronto and editor of The Ecumenist.

Highlighting the annual meeting and banquet which concluded the day's festivities was a speech by Dr. Mackay.

ALUMNI MEETINGS

The Oklahoma-Arkansas Princeton Alumni group held their annual meeting in Tulsa on January 13. Dr. James I. McCord led the dedication ceremonies for the sanctuary of the Tulsa First Presbyterian Church. At last year's gathering, the ceremonies had to be postponed, as the sanctuary had not been finished. To Dr. McCord, who had attended that meeting as well, the group extends a hearty invitation to return next year.

The group re-elected Ernest J. Lewis, '55, President; Donald W. Ruth, '44, Vice-President; and Larry A. Angus, '65, Secretary-Treasurer, all for two-year terms. Also attending were Jerome Berryman, '62; Joe Dolman, '55; Howard Ervin, '62; Ann Jackman, '64; Roger Knapp, '62; Albert Kraemer, '54; John Marvin, '36; David McKechnie, '68; LaVerne Ross, '37; Richard Stearns, '60; Donald Sturm, '60; Frank D. White, '20; and William J. J. Wiseman, '44.

An Alumni Luncheon was held at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel, Chicago, February 9, in conjunction with the annual meetings of the Association of U.P. Christian Educators and the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches. The "big snow" kept Dr. McCord, the scheduled speaker, in Princeton. Alumni were treated to ad-libbing by Dr. DeW. Campbell Wyckoff and Freda Gardner of the Seminary faculty.

The picture above, taken at the Hilton, represents the frustration of an alumnus who shall be nameless; even the film-maker's trademark failed to show up on the developed film. Not pictured, therefore, are the attending alumni: Janice Anderson, '65, Larry Angus, '65; John Cairns, BD '64 and MRE '66; William Chapman, BD '68 and MRE '62; Larry Chase, '68; Elly Clever, '65; Robert Collins, B '67 and M '68, and his wife; Desmond Cousins, '68; Beth Freund (standing in for husband Ernest, '65); Ross Gooch, '67, and his wife; Kent Groff, '67, and his wife Fredrika Simpson G., '66; Richard Hutchinson, '58; Victor Makari, '64; Jay McKenzie, B '65 and M '68; James Morrison, '58, Norman Myer, '65; Kathleen Neubauer, '67; Anne Showalter, '68; and Margaret Ronaldson, who was a special student in '49 and, happily, is now back on campus taking further special courses.

The Executive Council of the Alumni Association were on campus February 18. The 12 alumni members and 5 ex-officio members from the Seminary staff met for lunch and an all-afternoon session chaired by Dr. J. Charles McKirachan, '33, President.

Also in February, the nominating committee of the Association reported their slate of candidates for the office of Alumni Trustee. Hope you returned your marked ballot.

When is a magazine an Alumni meeting? The January 1969 issue of Frontlines, the U.P.C.U.S.A. Department of Chaplains and Service Personnel bi-monthly did its best.

On the front page is a photograph of Dr. Edward Brubaker, '41, who will in May complete 12 years of membership in the Department, the last six as Chairman, in addition to serving as minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Englewood, New Jersey. He was honored at the Department's 1969 Annual Dinner, held at the Sheraton Park Hotel, Washington, D.C., in January.

Pictured with him is Daniel Thomas, '44, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Allentown, Pennsylvania, who will succeed his fellow-Alumnus as Department Chairman following the General Assembly in May.

Of 14 active Chaplains present at the Dinner, six were Princeton Seminary alumni: Robert ('54) and Jane Angus, Charles ('57) and Betty Greenwood, Henry ('52) and Joanne Jonas, Paul ('48) and Ellen Reigner, Frederick ('52) and Dorislee Sundloff, and Stanley ('52) and Merita Webster. During the business sessions of the meeting, Dr. John Corbin, '32, Advisory Member representing COEMAR, reported on the Servicemen's Centers in the Far East in which the Presbyterian Church is involved.

Page 2 carries a feature on Captain Darryl E. Sparling, a Distinguished Military Graduate of the University of Washington and an honor graduate of the Basic Course 5-16-C20 of the U.S. Army Chaplain School at Fort Hamilton, New York. Darryl, his wife, Carol, and their three children have been at Princeton Seminary since September, assisted by the Webster Scholarship Fund. He plans to return to the chaplaincy after graduation this June. He was motivated toward the Chaplaincy at the University of Washington, by Dr. L. David Cowie, '36.

Captain Christian H. Martin, Jr., '61, is pictured on Page 3. He was recently awarded the Bronze Star for "meritorious service, professional competence, irrepres-sible, extraordinary initiative and leadership," which "enhanced the spiritual and moral welfare of the men of the [Takhli, Thailand] base . . . [His] exemplary leadership, personal endeavor and devotion . . . reflect great credit . . ." He is now facing the challenge of beginning a new Protestant program at Oxford Air Force Base, California.

Major Henry F. Jonas, '48 (see as dinner guest, above) was awarded the Army Commendation Medal for outstanding service at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. ". . . He distinguished himself through peerless leadership, professional motivation and diligent devotion . . . sound professional knowledge, mature judgment . . . outstanding leadership ability . . . working many hours beyond normal duty."

Other pages have stories on Richard C. Hettish, '56, aboard destroyers in the Western Pacific, via "Holy Helo Hops," to help young sailors; Caleb H. Johnson, '60, now with the 17th Combat Aviation Group; Neil M. Stevenson, '68 (Master's), Personal Response Officer for the Third Marine Amphibious Force, with headquarters in Danang; Ralph K. Willers, '56, Deputy Staff Chaplain, U.S. Army Support, Thailand, headquarters at Korat; Henry Shimozone, '60, fresh from service with the USNS BARRETT TAP and now at the Fleet Anti-Submarine Warfare School, San Diego; and Dr. Mark Thompson, '44, who in May will represent the Department of Chaplains and Service Personnel at the fifth annual Presbyterian and Reformed Retreat in Berchtesgaden, Germany.

ALUMNI PLEASE TAKE NOTE

Mail arriving in the Alumni Office to be forwarded to graduates who left these halls several years ago has now reached such a volume that we must review our policies in this service.

The Christmas season, with its surge of greetings, was especially trying this year.

We were not equipped, for example, to help you address and readdress your Christmas cards and letters, and it was several weeks before all of these were sent on.

In the future, we may have to return all such mail, rather than try to forward it, simply because the quantity is becoming too great for us to handle. To avoid this possibility, we ask those graduates who have been writing to their friends and classmates via the Alumni Office to select other, more direct, methods.

If you need alumni addresses, please write for them when seasonal mail is not pressingly heavy, and make a record of them as they are received. Changes are posted in every issue of the Alumni News, alphabetically by class, for your convenience.

Princeton Theological Seminary / Alumni News / Summer, 1969

June 21, 1969

Dear Fellow-Ministers:

Now that summer has come, it will be a time for taking stock and making plans for a new year. Somehow the calendar does not fit the rhythm of church life. Stock taking will be even more important this year, since the decade of the nineteen-sixties is ending, and in a few months a new decade will begin.

There are many ways to chart the history of the nineteen-sixties. It began under the administration of General Eisenhower, a period of consolidation for a war-weary nation bent on returning to normalcy and to building up security. The Kennedy administration was to follow, with its promise largely unfulfilled; and the Johnson administration, with its revolutionary social legislation and its credibility gap concerning Vietnam tragically dividing the nation; and now the Nixon administration, with its mandate to end the war and to find new solutions to the nation's social and economic ills. What is under attack in 1969 is something that was not under attack in 1959, namely, the "system"; and what is needed is powerful and swift change to extend it to all groups and to humanize it.

Theologically, too, the decade can be charted. It began with neo-orthodoxy still regnant, only to see it collapse with the erosion of its positivism of revelation. The theological giants disappeared, theology as a systematic discipline became suspect, and "pop" sociology began to take its place. Even the death-of-God phenomenon was short-lived, the last gasp of the theological period that has ended.

Ecclesiastically, the decade began with the Church still established by our culture, her statistics still rising, both in giving and in membership, and her future promising in the sense that her growth was expected to be correlative with the growth of the population and wealth of the nation. Today, however, there has come a demoralization that is reflected in declining membership, loss of confidence on the part of the ministry, and the emergence of what might be described as a Bastille-like psychology of survival.

The confidence which characterized the end of the nineteen-fifties was replaced, by the end of the nineteen-sixties, with a time of silence or a time of waiting on the part of theology and the Church. This has been described as a time when "the gods are silent" or when "the gods have failed." Others characterize this period as one in which there is no theological answer to be given simply because no word has been received. To many the vocation of this generation is limited to waiting. For almost five years our campuses have been populated with speakers who have been "waiting for Godot."

Let me suggest that this period of waiting in silence should now be put behind us, for it is high time that the Church realizes that we must move beyond this theological and cultural stalemate. Otherwise, we are threatened with the possibility of becoming existential dropouts, dropouts from a period that could be one of the most creative and exciting in the life of the Church, the nation, and the world. Already the contours of a new period are emerging, and its character will have crucial significance for the future of the Church.

First of all, there is emerging with this new context a new model for the theological student. It can best be described as "the pastor as missionary." This is quite different from the model of the pastor who simply performs the various functions historically identified with the pastorate, ministering to a passive congregation of people. Now the pastor is related to a congregation of people in the role of missionary. His ministry has a new goal. He is a change agent. He is relevantly related to the community where he is sent to minister, and he is bent on seeing that the congregation, which is his responsibility, takes some dominant role in fulfilling its mission in the area where it is located. I believe that this offers great hope for change in the type of theological end-product which the seminary will now produce—the emergence of a dynamic and gripping model of the pastor as missionary in this new age.

In the second place, there is emerging a new set of priorities. One is on service. No longer can the Church remain remote and aloof from the burning issues of the present. When a new age is dawning, in the midst of all its technological promise and threat, it should be an axiom that the Church is related to this new age, with all of its tensions, creatively and redemptively.

Another priority is a fresh assessment of spiritual life, of what it is to be a man of God in the present situation. One can detect in the student who is coming from the university to seminary today a tremendous yearning for a viable form of spiritual discipline that will not be a return to any old forms which have been discarded, but that will be significantly deeper and more profound than either pietism or the so-called theology of secularity have been able to produce.

All of this is promising enough as an agenda to make any minister grateful to God for being able to serve in one of the most creative and momentous periods in the life of a man.

A happy summer—and good reading!

Faithfully yours,

James I. McCord

ALUMNI NEWS is published four times annually by Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Second class postage paid at Princeton, New Jersey.

President McCord Honored by Westminster

Dr. James I. McCord, President of Princeton Theological Seminary, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, upon the occasion of Westminster's 115th Commencement. The citation reads:

"Mr. President: The Reverend Dr. James I. McCord exemplifies that concern for both relevance and reconciliation so needed in the church and church-related education today.

"Dr. McCord: As an educational administrator, you have stimulated the dialogue between academicians and activists. At Princeton Seminary one can study John Calvin and Stokely Carmichael; theories of revelation and a theology of revolution. And what you promote as a President you personify as a participant. Together with Christians all over the world through the World Alliance of Reformed and Presbyterian Churches and the World Council of Churches you have been concerned with both faith and order, with precipitating change and preserving continuity.

"At home you have worked hard to put our American ecclesiastical house in order. You were first chairman of the Consultation on Church Union, that proposal to bring together nine denominations and twenty-five million persons to restructure American Protestantism. In a day when the church is both defended as good enough and despised as good for nothing you have rejected that dilemma and developed concrete alternatives.

"Your words and your acts challenge Westminster College to seize the opportunity of our time—the opportunity to make common cause with 'those who are interested in breaking out of the old forms to find the church in the midst of the world.'"

Delivers Baccalaureate

Speech at Westminster College

Dr. James I. McCord delivered the Baccalaureate Address at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, on Sunday, June first.

Speaking on "The Quest for the Human," Dr. McCord observed that Christianity is the true humanism and a reaching out to acquire one's fullest humanity. "Responsibility is not an elective; it is the basis of personhood," he said. "Faith can give you the face of a man and shape you into a life that is human."

Alumni and Their Families after Graduation Exercises

An Envious Record

There has fallen into our hands a listing of students who have, over the years, come to Princeton Seminary from the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, California.

The total is 88 men and women. Is this the all-time record? Churches who believe they have sent more members to P.T.S. are invited to challenge.

Alumni Seminar—The Class of 1964

With Ron White as Coordinator and "Maitre d'," the Class of 1964 held a seminar at the Center of Continuing Education on June 4-6.

A lively question and answer group met with Dr. Seward Hiltner on the afternoon of the fourth. Later in the day a "Steaks In" cookout was held in the Center's patio, with Dr. and Mrs. McCord as guests of honor.

Breakfast in the Center's Alumni Room next morning was served by '64 volunteers. The Reverend Arthur M. Byers, Jr., conducted group worship, which was followed by a seminar on the "Theology of Hope" led by Professor Daniel Migliore. After lunch the group recessed for an afternoon of recreation. A "Hamburgers In" cookout preceded Professor W. J.

Beeners' seminar, "Variations on Communications."

After Friday's group worship, led by The Reverend Donald Boardman, Professors D. Campbell Wyckoff and Freda Gardner conducted a seminar on "What's in in Christian Education." After luncheon the group adjourned.

Attending were DONALD and Carol BOARDMAN, J. RUSSELL BURCK, BURTON F. and Ruth CHAMBERLIN, WILLIAM L. FLANAGAN, DEAN E. FOOSE, HAROLD E. JOHNSON, JOHN L. and Dorothy KIPP, CHARLES E. STENNER, JOHN F. STEPHENSON, JR., and Jeanne, JERRY C. and Sandra VAN SANT, RONALD C. WHITE, JR., and Sherrie, RICHARD G. YATES, SR., and Jeanne, and DEAN K. YOUNG.

Laurie Named Distinguished Alumnus

DR. JAMES W. LAURIE, '27, fourteenth President of Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas, was named a Distinguished Alumnus of the Seminary at the Alumni Association's May 17th dinner meeting during General Assembly. He is the first Texan to receive the annual honor.

A third-generation Presbyterian minister, Dr. Laurie is a graduate of Coe College, Iowa, and of the Columbia University Graduate School. Both Coe College and the University of Tulsa have awarded him honorary degrees.

Dr. Laurie, a Past President of the P.T.S. Alumni Association, has been vice chairman of the General Council and the Council on Theological Education of the United Presbyterian Church. In 1955 he was elected Moderator of the Synod of Texas and, in 1959, was the first minister to become President of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce.

Alumni Meetings

West Coast alumni meetings during April brought the Reverend Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, '24; the Reverend Arthur M. Byers, Jr., '50; and the Reverend David L. Crawford, '47, to California from the Seminary. At each, Dr. Homrighausen led a discussion based on his talk "Crisis in American Piety." Mr. Byers reported on campus events and plans of interest to alumni, and Mr. Crawford met with college students interested in entering the Seminary.

Dr. Charles S. MacKenzie, '49, President of the San Francisco Chapter, presided over an April 21st luncheon meeting at Berkeley House. 62 persons, including wives and students, attended.

On the evening of the same day, Los Angeles Chapter President John Inglis, '56, presided over a dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn attended by 76 people.

On the 22d, the Seminary trio met with 25 persons at the College Park Presbyterian Church in San Diego. The Reverend William MacInnes, '29, host pastor and President of the San Diego Chapter, presided at both meeting and luncheon.

Eastern alumni chapters were also busy. 48 alumni gathered on April 28 at the Third Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh. Chapter President Jerry E. Flanigan, '56, conducted the meeting, while Charles C. Bray, '57, was host pastor. Before dinner Dean Arthur M. Adams, '34, led a seminar on "The Ambiguous Context of Ministry." Later the Reverend Richard S. Armstrong, '58, Director of Development, spoke about plans for Erdman Hall and brought the members up to date on campus life, present and future.

On May 2, President James I. McCord, Mr. Byers and Mr. Armstrong drove to Philadelphia for luncheon and then on to Baltimore for dinner, meeting with alumni groups in both cities. Dr. McCord spoke on "Calvin and Revolution." Dick Armstrong presented the concerns of the Seminary for its Decade of Development, particularly the proposals for Erdman Hall; and Art Byers discussed plans for Alumni Day.

The Philadelphia meeting, at the Overbrook Presbyterian Church, was presided over by M. Allen Kimble, '46, Chapter President; Robert T. Williamson, '43, was host to the 48 present.

In Baltimore, Joe Hadley, '67, was host at the Second Presbyterian Church, while Chapter President John H. Houdeshel, '49, presided. 24 persons were present.

The oldest alumnus to attend was the Reverend Claton S. Rice, Class of 1908, in Berkeley. Chaplain Robert D. Workman, '15, came to the San Diego meeting.

Alumni meetings with Seminary personnel are usually arranged at the invitation of local chapters. Officers who wish such programs should address their requests to The Reverend Arthur M. Byers, Jr., Secretary of the Seminary, well in advance of the proposed meetings, so that suitable dates and itineraries can be worked out.

Perhaps the most exciting Alumni meeting to precede Alumni Day was the dinner held on May 17 at the General Assembly in San Antonio. Here 247 alumni and their guests, including Dr. George E. Sweazey, '30, Moderator of the General Assembly and guest of honor, heard Dr. McCord speak on "Ministry in Ferment." The Reverend George Docherty and Mr. John Park Lee, also present, were elected honorary alumni of the Seminary. More of this below.

Erdman Hall Campaign Under Way

The "kick-off" of the Erdman Hall Campaign was announced at the Alumni Dinner on June 3 by the Reverend David B. Watermulder, '45, Chairman of the Steering Committee. Dr. Watermulder explained how the Erdman Hall Fund fits into the over-all "DECADE OF DEVELOPMENT," a ten-year program with a target of $18,000,000 by 1975.

"Two-thirds of this amount will be used for scholarship and instructional endowment," Dr. Watermulder stated. "The remaining third includes the physical improvements and additions which have been and will be taking place during the ten-year period."

The acquisition of the Princeton-Windsor Apartments and the building of the Corporation Yard, both of which were included under the improvements to the physical plan, were made possible by the Fifty Million Fund. The new Residence Hall, however, will not receive any such support.

"For this reason we are launching a major campaign to raise $1,590,000, of which $1,290,000 will be used for the building itself. The remaining $300,000 will be divided equally between scholarship aid and instructional endowment," Dr. Watermulder said. "Thus a gift to the Erdman Hall Fund will help to meet three real needs."

After describing the organization of the campaign, the Steering Committee Chairman reported that more than $500,000 had already been received in cash, pledges and tentative commitments. He pointed out that the alumni would have a vital role to play in the campaign. Every alumnus will be asked for a personal contribution, through a committee headed by the Reverend C. Frederick Mathias, '57, who was introduced at the meeting.

Another committee, headed by the Reverend Melvin R. Campbell, '36, will approach all pastor alumni for help in seeking support from individuals and groups within their congregations. Dr. Campbell spoke briefly and introduced some of the Area Chairmen who will be working with him.

Other members of the Steering Committee are: Mrs. Earl H. Hoffman, the Reverend Elmer G. Homrighausen, Mr. J. Keith Loudon, Mr. Robert L. McNeil, Mr. W. Beverly Murphy, Dr. William H. Scheide and Mr. John M. Templeton. The Reverend Peter K. Emmons is serving as Honorary Chairman.

The following men are serving under Dr. Campbell on the Alumni Pastors Committee as Area Chairmen: Allen W. Beach, Charles C. Bray, Jr., John D. Burton, J. Alton Cressman, J. Stuart Dickson, Charles R. Ehrhardt, Aaron E. Gast, Merle S. Irwin, Reuel E. Johnson, Bryant M. Kirkland, George S. Knieriemen, Glover A. Leitch, Charles S. MacKenzie, Jr., Philip R. Magee, W. Davison McDowell, O. Thomas Miles, Paul R. Miller, Ralph M. Munger, George A. Munzing, Tom W. Nissley, Richard J. Oman, Mark R. Thompson, John M. Whallon and William J. Wiseman.

Roll Call Sets Record

The 1969 Alumni Roll Call has reached an all-time high, it was announced at the Alumni Dinner on June 3. In his annual report to the Alumni Association Director of Development Richard S. Armstrong stated that the total receipts at the close of the campaign were just under $28,000. "Late gifts could well bring the total up to $30,000," Mr. Armstrong said, "which is two and a half times the amount for the corresponding date last year."

More than 1400 alumni responded to this year's appeal letters, nearly twice as many as had replied by June 1 last year. The average gift, just under $20, was about $4 higher than last year's average.

Mr. Armstrong praised the work of the Regional and Area Representatives, whose personal calls were responsible for the significant increase in participation. "Although there is still plenty of room for improvement," he commented, "the regional organization has proved its effectiveness, and I'm convinced it will continue to bring even better results in the years ahead."

Almost all of the classes showed an increase in percentage of participation, with the largest gains being recorded by the Classes of 1954, 1966 and 1958. The Class of 1906 had the highest percentage (60%), while the Class of 1915 was second, with 54.5%.

Many of the alumni sent news of their activities along with their contributions. The Roll Call envelopes have been one of the richest sources of information for the class notes included in the Alumni News, as well as for address changes.

GWDC Education Seminar

The Greater Wilmington Development Council met at the Seminary's Center of Continuing Education March 20-22, under the leadership of Dr. Ralph Duke of the College of Education, University of Delaware. Arrangements and co-leadership were provided by Bob Stoddard, '65, Education Director for the Council. Twenty-five participants from Wilmington and 7 from other cities included representatives of huge industrial complexes, attorneys, editors, educators, insurance companies and one woman listed simply as "homemaker."

They heard and discussed presentations on "What Can Be Accomplished when Educators Will Cooperate on Their Own?" by Dr. Van Mueller, Executive Director of the Educational Research and Development Council of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Area, Inc.; "Metropolitan Government and Education," by Robert Horton, Assistant to the Mayor of Metropolitan Nashville, and Hugh Waters, Area Superintendent of the Metropolitan Public Schools of Nashville; "Organization of Education in Metropolitan Areas," by Dr. Luvern Cunningham, Dean of the College of Education, Ohio State University; "Equal Job Opportunities through Equal Educational Opportunities," by Joseph C. Moquin, President of Brown Engineering Company and Vice President of the Association of Huntsville Area Companies; "How Business Can Enable Cooperation among Educators," a film presented by James L. Marks, Director of Educational Services for the United States Steel Company; and "Education: What Business Is It of Business?" by Howard Moreen, Senior Vice President of the Aetna Life and Casualty Company and former Chairman of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce.

Following a work session in the Campus Center (on Saturday) the seminar adjourned to Wilmington.

Jeremias on Theology

Dr. Joachim Jeremias, renowned lecturer on New Testament Theology, delivered a public lecture, "The Root of Paul's Theology," in the Campus Center on March 27. Dr. Jeremias, Chairman of the Septuagint Commission of the Academy of Letters and Sciences of the University of Goettingen, is a foreign member of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences and Letters who in 1958 was awarded the Burkitt Medal of the British Academy. In addition to New Testament, he has specialized in Rabbinic theology and in the archaeology and history of Palestine. His many books include a revised edition of "The Parables of Jesus," "The Origins of Infant Baptism," "The Eucharistic Words of Jesus," "Unknown Sayings of Jesus," "The Servant of God," "Jesus' Promise to the Nations," "Infant Baptism in the First Four Centuries" and "The Sermon on the Mount." Dr. Jeremias was the 1965-66 visiting Professor of New Testament at P.T.S.

International Chapel

During the week of April 14-18, morning Chapel Services were led by representatives of the group of International Students with the Seminary during academic year 1968-69.

On April 15, the Reverend Mr. Winston D. Barrett of Jamaica, West Indies, had charge of the service. Mr. Barrett, a minister of the United Church of Jamaica and Grand Cayman, is a graduate of the Derby College of Art, Science and Technology (England) and of Union Theological Seminary, Jamaica. He has served a rural parish of six churches, which has involved responsibility also for management of church schools and the chaplaincy of a prison. Mr. Barrett has served his Presbytery on Christian Education committees and has been enrolled in the M.R.E. program at Princeton.

Mr. Graham Shaw of Surrey, England, took the service on the 16th. Mr. Shaw, a member of the Church of England, spent the past six years studying History and Theology at Oxford University. After his master's study in Systematic Theology here, he plans to return this summer to parish work in England.

The Reverend Yong-Bock Kim of Seoul, Korea, led on the 17th. Mr. Kim, a graduate of Yonsei University, later served in the Korean Air Force. He received his B.D. from Princeton Seminary in 1966 and continued his studies toward the Th.D. in Systematic Theology and Modern Far Eastern Intellectual History. During the past year he has also served as a Teaching Fellow in the Department of Theology.

Bishop K. Antony Paulson was responsible for the service on the 18th. Bishop Paulson belongs to the Church of the East, known in history as the Nestorian Church, which takes its origin from the Middle East and has its Patriarchate in Baghdad. He was graduated from Kerala University and has the B.D. degree from Serampore. Ordained to the priesthood in 1965, he was Rector of the Seminary of the Church of the East in 1967-68. In September 1968, on his way to Princeton, he was consecrated Bishop for India and is perhaps the youngest (27 years old) bishop in the world. He has been working toward a Th.M. degree in the field of Old Testament.

Mitchell on Practical Theology

The Reverend Henry H. Mitchell, Pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Santa Monica, California, delivered the first three lectures in the new Martin Luther King Memorial Lectureships on March 25 and 26 in the Campus Center. The series, sponsored by the Princeton Chapter of the Association of Black Seminarians, centered this year on the general theme

"Perspectives in Black Theology."

Mr. Mitchell holds the A.B. degree from Lincoln University, the B.D. from Union Theological Seminary, New York, and the M.A. from Fresno State College. In addition to his pastoral duties, he is a consultant in theological training of the black church ministry for the Department of Theological Education of the American Baptist Convention; member of a team of four consultants serving a major foundation in evaluation of programs for the training of black clergy; consultant in human relations and cultural differences in the public school system in Los Angeles; and consultant at California Baptist Seminary, Covina, and at Claremont School of Religion. His articles have appeared in such publications as The Christian Century, Foundations and Crusader. His forthcoming book will be entitled "The Black Hermeneutic."

Youth Speaks Out—"Sequence"

The April 6th edition of the Princeton YMCA's "Youth Speaks Out," presented on local radio station WHWH, featured a discussion of a two and one-half minute sound film, "Sequence," made by Seminary senior Andrew McComb.

Made in conjunction with McComb's senior thesis in Christian Education, the film consists of fast picture sequences depicting the condition of man from creation to the present; it centers around the life, death and resurrection of Christ. The sound track is from the album "Switched-on Bach," the Prelude and Fugue #2 in C Minor.

Friends of the Princeton Seminary

On April 8, the Executive Board of The Friends of the Princeton Seminary held an on-campus luncheon meeting to discuss plans for the Annual Meeting of the Membership. On hand were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Erdman, Mrs. Earl Hoffman, Mrs. John T. Galloway and, for the Seminary, Dr. McCord, Messrs. Andrews and Richard Armstrong and Mrs. Smith. Of the outcome of this meeting, more will be found below.

Paul E. Scherer Memorial Service

President James I. McCord conducted a memorial service in Miller Chapel for the Reverend Dr. Paul E. Scherer, retired Professor of Homiletics at Princeton Seminary, on April 11. Dr. Scherer died March 27 in Columbus, Ohio.

From 1920 to 1946 Dr. Scherer was the minister of Holy Trinity Church, New York City; and from 1932 to 1945, preached for the Sunday Vespers radio series. From 1946 to 1960 he was Professor of Homiletics at Union Seminary, New York. In 1961, after a year at Union Theological Seminary, Virginia, he joined the Princeton Seminary faculty as Francis Landey Patton Visiting Professor of Homiletics, a post he held until his retirement in 1968.

Dr. Scherer's publications include eight books, the last two of which were "The Word God Sent" and "Love Is a Spend-thrift." He was the author also of numerous published lectures and served as Associate Editor of "The Interpreter's Bible."

Preston N. Williams Lectures

Dr. Preston N. Williams, Associate Professor of Christian Ethics at the Boston University School of Religion, discussed "Christian Ethics for the Black Church" in three lectures on April 17 and 18. His presentation marked the second in the Martin Luther King Memorial Lectureship series for the current year.

Dr. Williams, a graduate of Johnson C. Smith University, holds a B.D. from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary and a Ph.D. from Harvard Divinity School. He serves also as Chairman of the Theological Commission of the National Committee of Black Churchmen.

Philadelphia Visit

On April 18 Messrs. Andrews and Armstrong travelled to Philadelphia, bearing with them Mrs. Smith and, as a passenger on his way to a speaking engagement, Dr. Charles T. Fritsch. The first three foregathered at the Presbyterian Historical Building with ladies from the Wayne Presbyterian Church, headed by Mrs. A. Kohr Sprenkle and Mrs. Earl Hoffman, to discuss an October 2d Walking Tour of Churches. A very pleasant luncheon at a nearby restaurant concluded in a gentle walk around the area, which is being restored to something of its former beauty. Members of the Seminary staff agreed to join the tour.

"God Save America"

Dr. J. H. Jackson, President of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc. spoke on "God Save America" in Miller Chapel, April 23. Dr. Jackson, a graduate of Jackson College, holds a B.D. from Colgate Rochester Divinity School and an M.A. from Creighton University. He has also received a Doctor of Divinity degree from Central State College, Ohio, and an

LL.D. from Bishop College, Marshall, Texas. Following ordination, he became pastor of Olivet Baptist Church, Chicago, where he still serves. Since 1953 President of the National Baptist Convention, he is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Baptist World Alliance and of the General Board of the National Council of Churches.

Cleage Speaks

On April 24 and 25, the Reverend Albert Buford Cleage, Jr., minister of the Shrine of the Black Madonna, Detroit, delivered three lectures and a sermon in Miller Chapel on the general topic "The Theology of the Black Church." The presentations were the third in the Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial Lectureship series. Mr. Cleage is a graduate of Wayne State University and received his B.D. from Oberlin Graduate School of Theology. He was Chairman of the Housing Commission Executive Board of the N.A.A.C.P. from 1948 through 1951 and since 1963 has continued as a member of the Association's Executive Board. In addition to his parish duties, Mr. Cleage has been since 1962 a contributing editor of the Detroit Illustrated News.

The Reverend Dr. Charles H. Long, University of Chicago faculty member and co-editor of History of Religions, an international journal for comparative historical studies, spoke on "Souls of Black Folk" in the Campus Center on April 28 and 29. The series, which concluded this year's Martin Luther King Memorial Lectures, included "The Decline of the West," "Beginning and Orientations" and "Souls of Black Folk." Dr. Long holds B.D. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, where he is an associate professor of the History of Religions. In 1962 he was at Princeton University as Visiting Associate Professor of the History of Religions. Co-editor of the volume "Alpha: The Myths of Creation," he has contributed numerous articles to The Journal of Religion and The Chicago Theological Seminary Review.

Baltimore Presbytery Seminar

Eleven members of the Baltimore Presbytery attended a special seminar at the Center of Continuing Education May 5-7. After orientation by Dr. Jack Cooper, Director of the Center, the visitors heard a homiletic book talk by Dr. Donald Macleod.

At other sessions, Dean Arthur M. Adams lectured on "The Hearing of the Word"; Dr. Diogenes Allen spoke on "Philosophy and Faith Today"; R. Brian Lyke, a Seminary senior, presented the film "Where the People Are"; and Dr. Daniel Migliore discussed "The Theology of Hope."

Choir-Chorus Concerts

The Seminary's Oratorio Choir and the Rider College Chorus combined to present Brahms' "German Requiem" in public concerts on May 6 and 8. The earlier presentation, in Miller Chapel, featured Evelyn Cooper, soprano, and Dr. S T Kimbrough, baritone. The second concert, in the Rider College Chapel had Rider students as soloists. Both performances were supported by an unusual combination of instruments, with Hedley Yost at the organ, Mary Helbig as harpist and Richard Klensch as tympanist. Clyde Tipton, visiting lecturer in music at the Seminary and member of the Rider faculty, conducted both.

Friends' Annual Meeting

The Friends of the Princeton Seminary held their annual meeting on May 8 in the Campus Center. After an opening prayer by Charles R. Erdman, Jr., co-President of the Friends, the more than 30 attenders were warmly welcomed by Dr. McCord. Mr. Erdman then introduced Richard Armstrong and Cara Smith to those Friends who had not already met them.

Dr. S T Kimbrough, accompanied by Seminarian Gary Cooper, presented a brief concert, which included a new setting to "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" arranged by Mr. Cooper. What may not be known to all PTS alumni is that Dr. Kimbrough has sung, to great acclaim, at La Scala and is in constant demand throughout the Princeton area as a soloist.

Student testimonies were given by the Reverend Miss Viera Valachova, Mary (Mrs. Ned H.) Benson, Floyd N. Rhodes, Jr., and Arthur D. Webster, Jr. Miss Valachova, a graduate of University Karlova, Prague, and Husova Theological Fakultu, Prague, was originally accepted as a Seminary student twenty years ago last fall. World War II and European politics interrupted her program, and it was not until this year that she was able to come to Princeton.

Mary Benson's husband, Ned, graduated from the Seminary this June. During their stay here, Mary has been an invaluable worker in several of the Seminary offices. She described some of the satisfaction and a few of the tribulations of the wife of a minister in training.

Floyd Rhodes, who also graduated this June, came to Princeton with his wife, Lottie, from Norfolk, Virginia. A graduate of Virginia State College, he related the difficulties experienced by black southerners determined to secure an education and devoted to life-long ministry.

Art Webster, another senior, came to Princeton with his wife, Carol, from Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of Duke University. Art spoke feelingly about his call to the ministry and his personal response to the education the Seminary had made possible for him.

Mr. Armstrong introduced Mr. Wayne Whitelock, who in turn introduced John A. Wintringham, a first-year student, graduate of Westminster College, Pennsylvania. John is in Princeton with his wife, Pamela. Together they showed the two student-produced films "Sequence" and "... A Calling?"

Dr. Jack Cooper spoke briefly on the need of the Center of Continuing Education for the additional facilities to be offered by Erdman Hall; and of the need for more sleeping facilities for single students at the Seminary.

After a luncheon enjoyed in the Main Dining Room of the Campus Center, the Friends conducted their afternoon business session in Stevenson Lounge.

Protestant Seminarian Seminar

Under the chairmanship of the Reverend Dr. Samuel Blizzard, Professor of Christianity and Society, the Center of Continuing Education presented a seminar on "The Protestant Seminarian" on May 8 and 9. The 20 invited guests heard Dr. Anthony P. N. Coxon and Professor Jackson W. Carroll deliver papers on "The Environment of the Seminary and Its Product" and "What Does the Process Do to the Protestant Seminarian?", each replying to the other's paper. Dr. Coxon, who recently completed a study of seminarians in Great Britain, is serving this year on the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Professor Carroll, a member of the faculty of Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, is completing a study of Protestant seminarians as his doctoral dissertation at Princeton Seminary.

At the final session, the Reverend Dr. John W. Meister, Executive Secretary of the Council on Theological Education of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., spoke in response on "The Implications for Protestant Theological Education."

Student Officers Elected, May 9

Elected President of the Student Association for academic year 1969-70 was Joel Roger Crosby, a 1968 graduate in business administration of the University of Washington. Mr. Crosby, who has just completed the first of his three years of study toward a degree of Bachelor of Divinity, is married to the former Kathleen Ann Paul. The couple live in the Princeton-Windsor Apartments.

Vice-President elect is Randolph Terry Riggs, a native of San Diego, California, and a graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Miss Carole Ann Peterson, a graduate of Saint Olaf College and candidate for the degree of Master of Religious Education, and A. Clark Wiser, a graduate of California State College at Los Angeles and Tübingen University, were originally tied for the position of Treasurer. Mr. Wiser won the run-off election on May 13.

Markey in Concert

Dr. George Markey, internationally acclaimed organist, presented a concert in Miller Chapel on May 13th. Dr. Markey is Director of the Guilman Organ School and Director of Music at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, both in New York City; and Professor of Organ at Westminster Choir College, Princeton.

At 15, as a Dimitri Mitropoulos scholarship student, Markey entered the University of Minnesota. Upon graduation, he entered the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, with scholarships in both piano and organ. He has studied with Rudolf Serkin, Dr. Alexander McCurdy, Theodore Bergman, Joanna Graudon, Rupert Sirom, Dr. Leo Sowerby and Norman Coke-Jephcott. His professional career began with appointment, at the age of 14, as assistant organist and choirmaster at Saint Luke's Protestant Episcopal Church, Minneapolis. It has been interrupted since only by service with the United States Navy, from 1944 to 1946, in the music therapy division of Bremerton Naval Hospital, Seattle.

An active member of the Executive Committee of the American Guild of Organists, Markey has been termed "the complete musician" and "a musician's musician."

Power, Conflict and Change

Dean Arthur M. Adams and Dr. Nicholas Van Dyck led a seminar on "Power, Conflict and Change in the Church" on May 22 and 23 at the Seminary's Center of Continuing Education. A discussion on Supervision was followed by a presentation by Dr. Samuel Blizzard, Professor of Christianity and Society. After dinner, Dean Adams made a presentation from the standpoint of Practical Theology.

The program for the second day included a taped sermon, followed by a critique and discussion, led by the Reverend David D. Prince.

DR. NORMAN V. HOPE is quoted by the Orange County Evening News, Garden Grove, California, of May 16 as pointing out that learning how to handle prosperity has been a difficult task for Christians throughout the ages. He added that the problem "has never been more acute than it is in American society today." The principal difficulties are the temptations to regard one's prosperity as the well-deserved fruit of one's own labor and ingenuity, and the poverty of others as punishment for shiftlessness. Dr. Hope, who concluded on June 22 his ministry as Interim Preacher at the Red Clay Creek Church of Wilmington, Delaware, is scheduled to preach at the Hanover Presbyterian Church of Wilmington intermittently during the summer and regularly during the fall. He will also preach at the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York City; the First Presbyterian Church, Germantown, Philadelphia; the National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C.; the Second Presbyterian Church of Richmond, Virginia; and the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City. The finalists will compete in final auditions on the stage of the Hamburg Opera House in September. Dr. Kimbrough studied voice at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music, Alabama, and Duke University.

He will serve again this summer as co-chairman of "Project-Newark," a creative venture in the heart of the city of Newark, New Jersey, by Christian Arts, Inc. The program is designed to convey the relevance of the biblical message for contemporary society through the arts. Honorary Chairman of the project is New Jersey Governor Richard J. Hughes.

There is a dark Gethsemane

Where I must kneel.

There is a prayer that I must pray

Until I feel

That self has been denied and God has won,

When I can truly say within my heart

Thy will, not mine, be done.

There is a hill of Calvary

Where I must go.

There is a cross that I must bear

Until I know

That self is crucified and Christ is mine,

When from the darksome tomb I rise again

To live the life divine.

There is a resurrection life

Which I must share;

It is a life of faith and love

That makes me care

Enough to say, in joy and loving trust:

It is not what I wish or will to do—

It is God's will; I must.

Then in my life I'm sure to find

A freedom true,

A fellowship with Christ, my Lord,

In all I do.

For, though the cross will bring me pain,

I know it is the only way that I

The crown of life can gain.

Edward R. Rein, '28

Late in June, Dr. West preached at the ordination service of Robert Butziger, '69, in Warwick, Rhode Island.

During July and much of August, Dr. West will be in Switzerland. He will attend the executive meeting of the Society for Development and Peace held in Bossey by the Vatican and the World Council of Churches, the working committee of the Department of Church and Society of the World Council, and an international consultation at the Ecumenical Institute of the World Council, where he will speak on "Man, the Steward of Power."
